

BRIDE IN MOCK MARRIAGE HAS MAN ARRESTED

Miss Kidel of St. Louis Accuses Otto Kramer, Caught in Wisconsin.

SAYS SHE WAS ROBBED

"Bridegroom" Disappeared
After Week's Honeymoon
in Chicago Hotel.

LEFT HER STRANDED

Stenographer Phoned Employer for Help, Saying Nothing About "Wedding."

Robbed of $3000 in money and jewelry and deserted after a week's honeymoon following a mock marriage, Miss Elizabeth Kidel of 7017 Caroline street, today caused the arrest of Otto Kramer, whom she met through a matrimonial agency.
He was captured in Green Bay, Wis., his home.

Miss Kidel, who is about 35 years old and who has been employed for several years as stenographer for Edward Mc-Taggart, a contractor in the Benoit
Building, says she is heiress to $100,000.
It is on her way to Germany to claim the estate of a recently deceased relative. She says she met Kramer in St.
Louis more than a year ago after answering a "soul affinity" advertisement.
In this city he represented himself as her cousin.

Last Friday Miss Kidel asked her employer for a vacation, which was readily granted. Gathering up all her belongings, she went with Kramer to Hillsboro, Ill., where they went through the form of a marriage ceremony, the bridegroom giving the name of Otto Bar-thold. They then traveled to Chicago, where they lived nearly a week at the Majestic Hotel, registering as Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kramer.

Happy & Nearly a Week.
She was happy for nearly a week.
Wednesday Kramer disappeared.
He waited for hours in tears, then searched her trunk, which she found and been rifled.

She was stranded in the hotel, and unhappily, saying nothing about her unlucky marriage, to McTaggart.

Miss Kidel said in Chicago that Kramer is not her cousin, but an acquaintance formed through a matrimonial agency. He told her, she says, his home was in Green Bay, Wis. He began a correspondence with her, and finally persuaded her to elope to Chicago with him.

JOHNSON OPENS
HEADQUARTERS IN CHICAGO HOTEL

CHICAGO, April 15.—Headquarters of Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency were formally opened in the Grand Pacific Hotel today. Frederick B. Lynch, treasurer of the Minnesota Democratic State Central Committee, and the first floor of the Grand Pacific was contracted for some weeks before the fire there.

Mr. Lynch intended to conceal the campaign plans until next week, when several thousand letters and booklets will be mailed to leading Democrats.

The campaign directed here, Mr.
Lynch says, is to be an educational one. In regard to Gov. Johnson and his prospects, he said:

Johnson Not Appreciated.
"Although Gov. Johnson has probably been more talked of in the magazines and the newspapers of the country in the last six weeks than any other man, with the exception of President Roosevelt, the people do not yet fully understand the type of man he is and how he fits the times. I think that there is much for the Democrats of the country to learn in regard to Gov. Johnson's political availability."

"What the friends of Gov. Johnson desire to do is to drive home to the Democratic leaders and the rank and file of the Democratic party, are tired of the occupant of the White House.
The country longs for a calm, judicious,
far-sighted man not lacking in strength and determination. The present rough-and-determined methods of reform are not appreciated."

Looks for Republican Aid.
"We believe hundreds of thousands of Republicans, as well as the major portion of the Democratic party, are tired of the occupant of the White House.
The country longs for a calm, judicious,
far-sighted man not lacking in strength
and determination. The present rough-
and-determined methods of reform are not appreciated."

REFUSED TO CARRY SHORT-RIBS AND SO SHE HAD TO FIGHT

Miss Tanner, Cashier, Describes Battle With Proprietor, Who Is Fined $10.

Miss Goldie Tanner of 655 North Vandewater avenue told Judge Tracy in the City Hall Police Court Thursday how she and her employer, Gus Jannopoulos, proprietor of a restaurant at 3221
Olive street, fought there Wednesday night while several customers sat at the tables.

"I'll tell you how it was, Judge," she said. "Mr. Anderson and Mr. Hoffman came in and ordered short-ribs and they said they were tough and I took them back into the kitchen and the boss said to take them back to the table and I said
I wouldn't and the boss chased me with a butcher knife and I ran into the restaurant and he followed me and I threw a bowl at him and hit him on the vest and he picked up a bottle of ketchup and somebody grabbed him."

Judge Tracy fined Jannopoulos $10.

KILLS HERSELF TO GIVE INVALID
SISTER $1000

Marie Lehmann Waits Year So
Suicide Will Not Annul Insurance Policy.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID

Was Thought to Have Deserted Invalid for Whom She Cared for Years.

CLAUSE IN THE POLICY THAT DELAYED SUICIDE

"If within one year from the date hereof the insured shall, whether sane or insane, die of her own hand, the liability of the company shall be limited to the amount of the reserve on account of this policy."

The reserve is the total amount of premium which the policy holder has paid less the company's expenses and profits incident to carrying the policy.

For a year Marie Lehmann, 28 years old, counted the days which she must pass before, under the terms of a life insurance policy she could kill herself and thus leave her helpless invalid sister, Maggie, 19 years old, $1000.

A clause in the policy said that the insurance would not be paid if the holder of the policy committed suicide within one year, but that, after that, self-destruction would not be a bar to collecting the insurance. The year expired
Tuesday. Marie Lehmann killed herself
Wednesday by swallowing carbolic acid.

The insurance policy, naming her sister Maggie as beneficiary, was found among her effects at the rooming house, 2320 Pine street, where she lived.

When Marie left her sister Wednesday afternoon she said: "April Fool's day is my day." What she meant was a mystery until the policy was found and it became clear that for 365 days
the web of Fate had been slowly unwinding and the skein of life had been diminishing for Marie. When the last thread was off the reel her mission was ended and she carried out the resolution which she had made a year before.

Fever Made Her Invalid.
When Maggie Lehmann was 7 years old scarlet fever made her a hopeless invalid who required constant attention night and day.

For the twelve years which have passed since then the burden of caring for the afflicted girl had been upon the shoulders of her sister.

Their father, a ranchman in Idaho, was shot from ambush and killed five years ago, and under the terms of his will each of the girls received $3000.
This small fortune was rapidly dwindle-ing away. Marie spent not only her sister's share, but her own, for medical and surgical treatment for Marie.

Only a few hundred dollars remained when Marie hit upon the plan of insuring her life in her sister's favor and killed herself.

Kills Self in Forest Park.
The fulfillment came when she went to Forest Park, and committed suicide.
Her body was found on a bench at the junction of Grand and Jefferson drives
Wednesday afternoon.

Marie had frequently told Mrs. Whipple, who keeps the rooming house, that the burden of caring for her sister was almost too great for her to bear and had hinted that if she could leave Maggie well provided for she would "go away."

A week ago she departed from the rooming house and remained away three days. When she returned she said she had been in an auto accident.

Whipple now believes that she contemplated suicide at that time and went away to wind up her personal affairs in preparation for the carrying out of her plan.

After Marie's disappearance a week ago H. A. Gernond of Seattle, Wash., whose wife is a sister of the Lehmann girls, forwarded to the St. Louis police a letter which Maggie, the invalid, had written to Mrs. Gernond.

"Thought She Was Deserted."
The afflicted girl did not dream of the sacrifice which was about to be made for her. She wrote that Marie had deserted her and that she feared she would be taken to the City Hospital.

"Please send for me at once," she pleaded. "I have been too great a burden for Marie and she has left me alone."

The police were investigating statements made in this letter when the lifeless body of Marie was found.

Marie was having been a young woman of no character, devoted solely to the care of her sister. For months she carried Maggie up and down stairs every day when she took her to a hospital for treatment.

For the last year, Mrs. Whipple says, Marie has seemed unusually serene of mind, and she seldom complained of the hardness of her lot, as she had done before she took out the insurance policy.

Marie alone knew why. The secret was hers and that which bore her up toward death was the text, "Greater love hath no man than this: that he give up his life for his friend."

NEW YORK, April 2.—The crisis in the domestic affairs of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, which society has been expecting for some time, came today when it was announced that his wife, Mrs.
Elise French Vanderbilt, had filed an action against him in the Supreme Court in this city.

According to a court official who says
he saw the papers, it is a suit for absolute divorce. The laws of New York recognize only one ground for absolute divorce.

The husband's attorneys are preparing an absolute denial to every charge the wife makes. This may not mean that Vanderbilt will actually fight the issuance of a decree. This will depend on the course his wife pursues.

FRANK MAKES OFFER FOR THE STAR-CHRONICLE

Former Owner of St. Louis Star Wants to Get Consolidated Paper.

Milton McRae of Cincinnati, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Scripps-McRae league of newspapers, has admitted in Detroit that negotiations are in progress for the sale of the St. Louis Star-Chronicle to Nathan Frank of St.
Louis. Mr. Frank was principal owner of the Star before its consolidation in 1905 with the Chronicle, a Scripps-McRae newspaper.

Mr. McRae told an interviewer, according to dispatches, that he and Mr.
Frank had been discussing the matter for about ten days, and that a representative of Mr. Frank called on him in Detroit and submitted a proposition.
"Nothing definite was done by the members of the Board to whom I submitted the proposition," said Mr. Mc-Rae, "and I do not feel at liberty to talk upon the probable outcome of the negotiations."

Frank's Statement.
Nathan Frank, when asked Thursday about the report that negotiations are pending for his purchase of the Star-Chronicle, said:

"I have heard that report for almost a year. It has probably been revived recently by frequent visits of Mr. Mc-Rae to St. Louis."

When asked specifically if it is true that he was negotiating for the purchase of the Star-Chronicle, he replied that he was not doing that "right now."

William B. Kenny, editor of the Star-Chronicle, said he is a stockholder in the corporation but that he had not been consulted about the sale of the stock.

"Mr. Scripps has the power to vote my stock," Mr. Kenny said, "and he might do so without telling me."

Mr. Kenny added that he had heard unofficially that he is to be transferred to London.

It is considered probable that if the Scripps-McRae corporation sells any of its stock in the Star-Chronicle, it will sell it all. It owns an amount slightly in excess of 50 per cent. The minority stock—about 50 per cent—is held or controlled by Mr. Frank.

TWO TRAINS CRASH FIFTEEN MILES NORTH OF ST. LOUIS

Trained Nurse Saves Life of Brookfield Stockman After He Is Freed—Four Others Injured in Caboose, but None Seriously.

While J. A. McKittrick, a stockman of Brookfield, Mo., was pinioned under the wreckage of Burlington freight train 72 and the locomotive of passenger train 24 at Fort Bellefontaine, near Spanish Lake, 15 miles north of St. Louis, Thursday morning, with the hot steam pouring out upon him from the damaged engine, he took out his barlow knife and coolly directed the Rev. R. C. Allen of Grove City, Pa., to cut the tendons of his crushed left leg, which held him prisoner.

After the leg had been cut off, McKittrick's life was saved by Mrs. Emma Renner, a trained nurse of Cincinnati, a passenger, who made a tourniquet of her veil, staunched the flow of blood and then gave him morphine and strychnine to ease the pain and stimulate the heart action.

The passenger train ran into the caboose of the freight train, both southbound, and telescoped it. McKittrick, who was on his way to St. Louis with a car load of hogs, was sitting in the caboose of the freight train. He was caught under the engine, and his left leg was cut nearly off at the knee. All the other passengers in the caboose and the train crew escaped with a few slight injuries. McKittrick was lying face downward under a pile of rubbish, with one of the wheels of the locomotive resting on his leg.

Asks for Relief From Steam.
"Boys, can't you fan the steam back a little," he asked, as the men worked to release him. Half a dozen persons, using hats and handkerchiefs, tried to fan back the steam, but it was rushing forth in such quantities that it endangered the injured man's life.

By this time Mrs. Renner had arrived with a flask of whiskey. She pressed the bottle to McKittrick's lips and told him to drink.

"I'll try a little of it," he said, "but I have not touched a drop of this stuff for five years."

The steam rolled forth from the engine in greater quantities and it seemed that McKittrick would surely be scalded to death.

"Here, boys," he said, taking his barlow knife from his pocket and handing it to the preacher, "cut that leg off. I can't stay here and die."

Mr. Allen felt the tendons and described the situation to the injured man.
McKittrick ordered him to cut the tendons. The preacher whacked away at the ligaments, but the knife was dull and the pain was intense.

Advices Use of An Ax.
"Throw the knife away and get an ax," commanded McKittrick. But Mr.
Allen, by hard work, had by this time cut the tendons and McKittrick was carried into the train. Mrs. Renner then went to work on him and soon had him restless.

The freight train was running slowly when the passenger train crashed into it. The wreck was caused, it is said, by the passenger train running past the flag at Spanish Lake. The accident happened 14 miles from St. Louis.
The injured persons were brought to St. Louis on the passenger train, transferred to ambulances at the foot of Mullanphy street, and sent to the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium.

The accident happened at 5:30 a. m.
Dr. A. F. Kieykamp of 908 Tyler street was sent to the scene of the wreck to treat the injured persons. The train did not get to the foot of Mullanphy street with them until 9:30.

Mrs. Renner was in the dressing room of one of the Pullmans when the passenger train crashed into the freight.
She was thrown down and slightly bruised. She ran out to see who was hurt and was then kept busy until the train got into St. Louis and the injured persons were taken to the hospital.

Preacher-Surgeon Aged Man.
Dr. Allen, who cut McKittrick's leg off, is a Covenant preacher, 60 years old. He was on his way to Staunton, Ill. Mrs. Renner was on her way from the State of Washington to her home in Cincinnati. Mrs. E. M. Wland of Concordia, Kan., was thrown out of a Pullman berth and R. H. Thompson of Kansas City, a real estate dealer, was thrown down in the washroom of the Pullman and his finger dislocated.

Christian Nauroth, 86 years old, was beaten and robbed of $14 in daylight Thursday at Thirtieth and Arsenal. His nose was fractured in two places and his face was bruised and cut by his assailant. Nauroth lives at 3217 South Ninth street. He was passing along Thirtieth street, when a man leaped from a gangway, put one hand over his mouth and dragged him into a coal shed back of a saloon.

There Nauroth, despite his cries for help, was beaten almost into insensibility.

Mrs. Mary Redemsky, who has a grocery at 1302 Arsenal street, heard the cries and saw a man fleeing west on Arsenal street. He was white, about 32 years old, and wore a gray suit.

Nauroth was taken to the South Side Dispensary, where his wounds were treated. Then he was sent home.

ated Press.

POPS OPEN THEIR CONVENTION WITH PARTY PRAYER

Chaplain Makes His Appeal More Like a Political Speech.

"KEEP US FROM FUSION"

Chairman Ferris of Joliet Calls Session to Order at Olympic.

The Populist convention was opened in the Olympic Theater Thursday morning with a prayer, which was more in the nature of a political speech than an invocation to the Almighty, by the Rev. Thomas Wadsworth of Indiana.

The Rev. Dr. Wadsworth counseled the People's party delegates not to form any ungodly alliances with any other faction, meaning Bryan, according to those who heard him.

J. H. Ferris of Joliet, chairman of the Populist National Committee, then called the convention to order with a long address, outlining the issues of the party.

Coxey Temporary Chairman.
Gen. J. S. Coxey was nominated for temporary chairman of the convention by J. A. Parker of Louisville, Ky., and when he was conducted to the platform he made a typical Populist speech, in which he said half the men who worked for the manufacturing plants of the country were idle.

"The Republican party is being gold-bricked by its President," he averred. "A message from Roosevelt reads like a preamble to a Populist platform. What is the difference between Roosevelt and Bryan?"

"None!" shouted the 200 delegates. "That's right," said Coxey. "In 1896 the Populist party was ruined by Bryan."

Watson Favorite Candidate.
Thirty-five States are represented in the convention by about 300 delegates. Minnesota, Washington, California, Mississippi, South Dakota and Michigan are represented by only one delegate each. Frank E. Richey of St. Louis will probably be permanent chairman.

The sentiment for Thomas E. Watson of Georgia for presidential nominee is unanimous with the exception of Nebraska, whose delegates stick to their "perfect one," Bryan, but his name is in such disfavor that it probably will not go before the convention at all. Sam Williams of Indiana is the favorite for Vice-President on the ticket. The Missouri delegation held its caucus and is awaiting a named advice as to whether it is eligible to go on the official ballot under the new primary law. If it does not get on the official ballot the men named will probably run independently, which will enable them to get on the regular voting list.

Hicks Nominee for Governor.
The following nominations were made: Governor, George Oswald Hicks, Macon County; Lieutenant-Governor, Nat G. Eaton, St. Louis; Secretary of State, J. M. Burns, Kansas City; treasurer, J. W. Letcher, Webster County; auditor, C. L. Alexander, St. Francois County; attorney general, H. H. Artz, St. Louis; railroad and warehouse commissioner, James Riley, Monroe County; Judge St. Louis Court of Appeals, Frank E. Richey, St. Louis; Judge Kansas City Court of Appeals, H. N. Eas, Kansas City; United States Senator, John M. London, Macon County.

HAYTI REFUGEES, FEARING DEATH, FLEE TO LEGATION

French Government Hears of Internal Dissensions Among Rival Negro Political Factions.

PARIS, April 2.—Advice received by the French Government from Hayti indicates that the state of chaos which prevails at Port au Prince is accentuated by strife among the negro factions there.

Troops will be landed from foreign warships now in Haytian waters. It is expected, if the lives of the white inhabitants should appear to be endangered.

Several additional refugees, in fear of summary execution, have fled to the French legation, where they have been given asylum.

Poet Among the slain.
PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, April 2.—The Haytian Government issued a formal denial today of the charge that political executions are continuing despite all assurances given the representatives of foreign powers that they are stopped.

The statement has failed to allay alarm. It is not believed in diplomatic circles and its supposedly misleading character is taken by foreigners as a final proof that the government is not to be trusted.

The refugees in the French legation have furnished Minister Caceron with what he considers absolutely convincing evidence that several suspected anti-government plotters were shot no longer ago than yesterday morning and that Arsene Chevre, the poet, was among the victims.

Minister Caceron no longer conceals the fact that he has armed the legation in anticipation of an attack. He looks for a Government attempt to take the refugees by force.

One of the Old Guard.

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS WILL READ HANDS FOR CHARITY

One of the features of the Charity Carnival at Forest Park Highlands May 16 will be the camp of Oriental and Egyptian fortune tellers.

This concession of the carnival has been put in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. H. J. Scherck, 439 Lindell boulevard; Mrs. M. G. Seelig, 2025 McPherson avenue, and Mrs. John Green Jr. of the Clemens Apartments. The committee is already hard at work on plans they think will make their concession by all odds the most attractive in the carnival.

Will Duplicate English Camps.
The fortune tellers' camp will be an exact duplicate of the famous gypsy camps of the English green. There will be a number of tents, a caravan of gypsies and 30 of the most beautiful girls in St. Louis dressed in picturesque gypsy garb.

These will be inside the tents and anyone who wishes to peer into the future will have only to cross the palm of one of the gypsy girls with a piece of silver and all that is hidden in the future will be revealed.

There will be 30 other pretty girls in gypsy costume who will go among the crowds on the grounds selling tickets that entitle the holder to have his fortune told by one of the gypsies in the tent.

Costume Commission Given.
The costumes worn by the gypsy girls will be true to the original types. A celebrated costumer has already been given a commission to design them.

OPERATORS AND MINERS PREPARE FOR CONFERENCE

President Lewis Says First Duty Is to Restore Order.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 2.—Representatives of the miners' organization to the operators, asking them to meet the miners' officials here next Monday, indicate that there will be such a meeting. The old interstate agreement is expected to be restored.

President Lewis wanted to have the meeting quietly, and is averse to discussing it, although his first official act was to issue the call for it. He says he believes it will be a preliminary step toward the settlement of the differences. "First of all," he said, "it is our duty to bring order out of chaos as soon as possible. I am not now in a condition to discuss the matter fully, but may have more to say by tomorrow night. I can't tell what the outcome will be."

MACON, Mo., April 2.—R. S. Thomas, coal mine inspector, who has returned from Jefferson City, says the trouble between the miners and the operators in Districts 14, 21 and 25, is not so much the question of wages as other conditions. He believes the troubles will be settled, and thinks the operators have control of the situation. The men want the old agreement renewed.

Belleville Mines Close.
All the coal mines near Belleville were closed Thursday except the Pullerton and Summitt, which are independent, and which together employ 135 men. At the "Nigger Hollow" mines of the St. Louis & O'Fallon Coal Co., the drivers demanded an increase from $2.56 to $3 a day, and refused to work when the superintendents would not grant it. The eight mines of the Southern Coal and Mining Co. are closed by a lockout.

lawyers had previously appeared before Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman, who, upon their application, had appointed David McClure a referee to take the testimony and report to the Court. This is the customary procedure in divorce cases where it is desired to avoid publicity.

No one concerned in the action would make any statement.

The Mauretauts sailed at 3 p. m. from the dock at the foot of West Tenth street, with Alfred G. Vanderbilt on the ship. He was accompanied by his valet and second man. A few gifts of costly flowers ornamented his cabin.

Husband Is Silent.
Mr. Vanderbilt was asked before sailing as to his reported separation from his wife—it was not known at that time that her suit had been begun, inasmuch as the papers had not been filed.

"I have nothing to say about the matter," he said. "It is a personal matter, and my lips are sealed."

He said he expected to stay in London until May, and was going to drive the coach "Venture" to Brighton for six weeks, displaying his horses at the annual show, and then return to New York.

W. K. Vanderbilt Jr., who accompanied his wife to the pier, left before the arrival of Alfred. He said he knew nothing of his cousin's private affairs.

Wife Now at "Eden."
Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt abruptly left her husband's country place, Oakland Farm, in Portsmouth, a suburb of Newport, Tuesday of last week and came to New York. She was quickly followed by a large quantity of her personal belongings. She then went to "Tuck's Edge," the home of her brother, Amos Tuck French, at Tuxedo. She declined last night to make any statement regarding her suit.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Elsie French were married Jan. 14, 1901, at Newport. He was then 22 years old.

The bride was 21, the daughter of the late Francis Ormond French, who was president of the Manhattan Trust Co. Her mother, whose maiden name was Ellen Tuck, was married some time before to Col. the Hon. Francis Eaton,

Vanderbilt Marriages and Divorces in Brief

MRS. ALFRED GWYNNE VANDERBILT'S suit for divorce follows the matrimonial unhappiness of Alfred's uncle, William K. Vanderbilt, as well as the strange circumstances surrounding the marriages of various members of the Vanderbilt house.

William K. Vanderbilt was divorced on March 5, 1886, by his first wife, who subsequently married Oliver H. P. Belmont. She named a notorious Paris woman as co-respondent, and Vanderbilt did not contest. Later he married Mrs. Lewis M. Rutherford, who had been married twice previously.

The marriage of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., Alfred's brother, to Miss Grace Wilson, divided the house and New York society, and so displeased his father that Cornelius was practically disinherited. Alfred, the second son, was given control of the $60,000,000 estate. Through Alfred's generosity Cornelius was given about $6,000,000. The family estrangement lasted for years, but recently there was a reconciliation.

The marriage of Reginald Vanderbilt, Alfred's younger brother, to Miss Cathleen Neilson was opposed at first.

Alfred is understood to have opposed the marriage of his sister, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, to Count Lascio Szechenyi recently, but he attended the wedding.

HOUSE TO HOLD UP CITY WAGES, SAY POLITICIANS

No more salaries will be paid city officials and employees until the annual appropriation bill is passed at the new session of the Municipal Assembly, which begins April 21. In former years, the passage of this bill frequently has been delayed—sometimes until June.

Politicians assert it will be delayed longer than that this year, possibly until after the primary election in August.

There will be a battle royal at the primaries between the Jefferson Club, or Hawes' forces and the Democratic City Central Committee's army, headed by Chairman Lawrence P. Daley and Justice James P. Miles. Daley and Miles have controlled the House of Delegates throughout the present session. If they can control it during the new session, they can delay the passage of the appropriation bill as long as they desire.

Daley Was Expelled.
Daley and his half-brother, Delegate Frank Hussey were expelled as "undesirables" from the Jefferson Club. At the same time nearly all the clerks in the city departments were enrolled as members of the Jefferson Club.

A friend of Daley's recently said that, if the House of Delegates meets during the summer, the Jefferson Club members would not be anxious to vote for Cowherd and Stone.

Call for $12,000,000.
The appropriation bill has been prepared by Comptroller Player for introduction at the first meeting of the new session. It calls for approximately $12,000,000.

THREE DEAD IN AN INCENDIARY TENEMENT FIRE

Fifteen Are Hurt and 100 Lives Endangered by Revengeful Act.

WOMEN JUMP, INJURED

Persons Living in Neighborhood Are Suspected of Causing Tragedy.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Three persons were killed, 15 were injured, some of them seriously, and the lives of nearly 100 persons were endangered by fire in a five-story tenement house at 44 Hester street early today. The police believe persons living in the neighborhood fired the house for revenge. The dead are: Berel Weinstein, his wife, Anna, and their 1-year-old son. They were suffocated and burned in their apartments on the fifth floor.

That more lives were not lost was largely due to the prompt action of three policemen, who, seeing flames in the hall, rushed through the building and aroused the members of 16 families. By that time the stairways were a mass of flames and the only means of exit as by the fire escapes.

Fire Escapes Overcrowded.
In their mad attempt to escape from the smoke and flames scores of scantily-clad men and women and children crowded the narrow platforms and the ladders until they became wedged in a solid mass on the fire escapes, unable to extricate themselves and blocking the way of those who had not yet succeeded in getting out of the building.

This was the situation when the firemen arrived and began to run up ladders to take the fugitives from the perilous position. The work moved forward slowly, however, as in some instances the combined efforts of half a dozen firemen were required to drag a woman or child from the tightly-packed platforms.

Meantime the flames had been spreading and the terror among the tenants had carried them past the point of self-restraint. While firemen on ladders and others on the ground were calling out to them that there was no danger and that help soon would reach them, they began one by one to jump from the windows.

Several Leap From Windows.
David Miller sprang from a fourth-story window and suffered injuries which probably will cause his death. Rosie Gallmann, Fannie Herzon and Hyman Mettlemann, who jumped from windows on the second and third floors, have broken limbs and were taken to hospitals. Several others were internally injured. Others refused to go to hospitals.

Weinstein and his wife and baby were found lying dead in their rooms on the top floor of the burning building, after the flames had been overcome by smoke while trying to reach the blazing stairway. The building was damaged to the extent of about $2000. The police are investigating, and every attack of the fire marshal's office has been called into the case. It is now believed the fire was set for revenge, and that persons living in the neighborhood are directly responsible.

TILLMAN CALLS WARNER

"PRESIDENT'S MESSENGER"

He Carries Sherman Law Amendment From White House to Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Warner of Missouri has been dubbed "The President's Messenger." The title was invented some time ago by Senator Tillman in a sarcastic speech on the "servants of the executive."

Tillman told about bills in preparation at the White House, and declared that when they were ready, the President would send for one of his servants in the Senate and have them introduced. "Who is to bring these bills from His Excellency and introduce them here,

for us to obey the orders from the White House? I am going to watch and see," said Tillman. Warner won the honor yesterday, when he introduced the President's measure to amend the Sherman anti-trust law so that labor unions and "good" trusts may operate.

Senator Warner will return to Missouri, leaving here today to be at the close of the Kansas City municipal campaign Monday.

Town Turns Out En Masse and Welcomes English Girl as the Duke's American Fiancee.

TURIN, Italy, April 2.—The Turin Gazette thought it would be funny to "April fool" Italy into thinking Miss Elkins was due in the country yesterday. It succeeded, though some people could not see the joke.

It printed a bogus telegram, saying the object of the Duke of the Abruzzi's courtship would arrive in Turin from Paris late in the afternoon.

Turin turned out in a body to welcome

her. The station was packed at the hour the train was expected. Newspapers and photographers, press and amateur,

swarmed on the platform.

The train thundered in. A pretty English girl alighted. The crowd mistook her for Miss Elkins. It surged forward, in nearly mobbed the girl. It cheered fran-antically. The cameras clickety-click click-clicked.

The reporters begged for interviews.

The girl couldn't speak Italian. The reporters could not talk English. The girl became frightened. She could not understand what was the matter. She cried.

Finally an interpreter elbowed his way to the front. He talked a moment to the girl. Then he explained. The crowd laughed and dispersed.

SZECHENYI AND HIS BRIDE EVADE CROWD AT BUDAPEST

Count and Countess Will Rent Fine House There for the Society Season.

BUDAPEST, April 2.—Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi have arrived in Budapest. Count Stephen Szechenyi, Laszlo's next older brother, met them. Count Laszlo and his bride dodged the newspaper reporters and escaped a crowd that was at the railroad station to see them. They dined in their suite in the Hotel Hungaria.

Count Szechenyi, who was best man at his kinsman's wedding to Miss Vanderbilt in New York, sent a large bouquet of roses, which adorned the dinner table. Prof. Chari, physician to Emperor Francis Joseph, who attended the Countess in Vienna, assured her that her throat affection was trifling, so she and her husband decided to come here, as they had first planned.

Several very fine houses here have been offered to Count Laszlo for rent in this city. Then he and his wife will visit his estate at Ormizse, remain there three weeks, and return to Budapest for the fashionable season.

Many invitations awaited them here.

NEW POLICEMAN SUSPENDED; FIRST PAY CAUSES TROUBLE

Superiors Say They Found Collins Intoxicated and He Will Not Be Accorded Trial.

His first month's pay was a "lenon" for Probationary Patrolman Daniel J. Collins, who was suspended from duty and then locked in a cell to "recuperate" Wednesday evening. He will not be accorded a trial by the Police Board, as his superiors officers have recommended that he be dropped from the rolls.

Collins' arrest followed a telephone message received by Night Chief-Gil Jassy, stating that a policeman was "acting ugly" at 2703 Lucas avenue. Lieut. St. John and Sergt. Gleason found Collins at that address and both say he was intoxicated. He refused to make a written report when ordered to do so at the Dayton Street Station, and was assigned to a cell. Collins was appointed in March and Wednesday was his first pay day.

'ADVENTURERS!' CASTRO REPLIES TO UNCLE SAM

Venezuela President's Official Paper Says Claims Won't Be Considered.

'TOO LATE FOR ACTION'

If Claimants Want "Justice," They Must Depend on Native Courts.

CARACAS, March 19.—President Castro's official organ, El Constitucional, publishes a part of Venezuela's answer to Secretary Root's last note reiterating the Secretary's previous demands for the arbitration of the five American claims.

These are the words of the Venezuelan Minister of Foreign Affairs to Minister Russell:

The Government of Venezuela refuses for the time being to take under consideration the intimation made in your note, because up to now Mr. Minister, you have not contradicted the notes of this ministry of dates July 9 and Sept. 20 last, which, treated of the points which have been the subject of discussion, and in which the reasons on which this Government then founded its negative were perfectly well defined. In view of this, the cases in question, comprised among those which require diplomatic action, cannot be considered and the Government of Venezuela would see with satisfaction that the United States would consider this matter terminated, the interested parties always having the right of recourse to the tribunals of justice of the republic if they deem it convenient.

Pears for Monroe Doctrine. The paper goes on to allege that almost five years after the claims in question had been arbitrated, the American Government comes to demand, through its Minister in Caracas, that two of these claims shall be newly submitted to arbitration.

Suggesting that the usefulness of the Monroe Doctrine will be destroyed by the present attitude of the State Department, the editorial continues:

"We do not believe for a moment that the United States Congress, the high representation of the nation, can possibly authorize any proceeding which will create a situation contrary to the rule of justice among nations."

Calls Them Adventurers. In closing, El Constitucional says: "It is the duty of every Government to watch over the legitimate and honest interests of its citizens and save them from all designing attack, but no serious Government nor any Government which pretends to be just can or ought to protect under the flag of the fatherland the speculations of adventurers."

A serious charge is added against one of the persons making a claim against Venezuela.

OFFICER LABELED ARMY MAN "BAD BOY" IS DISCIPLINED

Capt. Dudley, a Missourian, Is Ordered Into Confinement for Four Months.

Capt. Clark D. Dudley of the Fourteenth United States cavalry, a Missourian, has been ordered confined within the limits of his post for four months and to be reprimanded in orders, as a result of a court-martial held at Boise Barracks, Idaho. Capt. Dudley, who was born in Holden, Johnson County, and frequently visited St. Louis, was charged with illegally administering punishment to enlisted men of his troop. He commands "L" troop of the Fourteenth cavalry at Boise Barracks.

One of the specifications in the charges against the Missouri officer was that he caused to be made and placed on the back of Private F. C. Lang of his troop a placard bearing the inscription, "bad boy." The specification further recited that Capt. Dudley caused Lang to parade the barracks porch wearing this sign in sight of other enlisted men and passing civilians. Another specification charges that this action of the troop commander subsequently caused Private Lang to desert.

Device Reproduces Profile. A little apparatus, known as a profilograph, is a French invention capable of a number of services. Its purpose is to reproduce rapidly the profile of any given object. It consists simply of a number of narrow strips of cardboard held together by a flexible metal core. Upon pressing one side of the apparatus against the object the profile will appear on the other side so that its outline may be traced on a piece of paper.

ARRESTED ON WEDDING DAY ACCUSED OF ROBBING GIRL

Billies, Masks and Stories of Highwaymen Found in Grip of Minnesota Prisoner.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 2.—Guy H. Morris, son of a business man of Austin, Minn., is in custody here, having been arrested in Austin yesterday a few hours before the time set for his marriage to a young telephone operator of Austin. The arrest was made by Chester Edwards, an officer of Spokane, Wash., on the charge that Morris stole $1500 worth of diamonds from Jennie Smith, alleges Morris enticed her into a room in a hotel and choked her into unconsciousness, chloroformed her and then robbed her of the diamonds. Morris was a railroad brakeman. Since his return from the West he purchased a livery stable in Austin. The police here say he pawned jewelry worth $500 in St. Paul and that he has promised to return to Spokane without question in Morris' grip the police found billies, masks and a number of newspaper clippings, relating how several persons had been robbed by a lone highwayman.

CHURCH ORGANIST ENDS LIFE Chicagoan Hangs Self in Asylum in Elgin.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Henry J. Wey, for many years organist in prominent Chicago churches, committed suicide yesterday at the Northern Illinois Insane Hospital in Elgin, after having been committed to the institution a month ago suffering from acute melancholia. Brought on by the discovery that he was afflicted with cancer of the stomach, Mr. Wey, who was 59 years old, hanged himself with a towel.

SALOON CASE JURY SQUABBLES

CHICAGO, April 2.—"It was the hottest thing I ever saw in," said a juror who heard the evidence in the case of Barney Coffey for Sunday saloon opening.

"One man picked up a chair and broke it over a table. Another got on his knees and held up his hands while he swore he would hold out against us for the rest of his life. We couldn't do a thing with him, so we disagreed." This strenuous jury session ended the ninth unsuccessful effort of the anti-saloon men to bring about a conviction for operating saloons on Sunday. Before the belligerent jury had been discharged the tenth case was started.

PROMOTER HAS PLAN TO LEASE GARRICK HERE

Harry E. Hart, Who Says He Represents Syndicate, Investigates Field.

Harry E. Hart, who says he represents a new theatrical syndicate, is in St. Louis investigating the present status of the Garrick Theater with a view to leasing that playhouse from the Shuberts.

He says he will enter into negotiations with the Shuberts upon his return to New York, although what he learned here of their next season plans leads him to believe that they will not be open to offers of any description.

May Build New House Here.

In that event, he declares, his syndicate will arrange to build a new theater in St. Louis, in conjunction with local capital, to be open by Jan. 1, 1909. By that time, also, the new syndicate will have a ready of theaters ready to open in 10 cities, including three in New York and one each in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago, Louisville, Philadelphia and Boston.

These houses, ultimately to be increased to 40, Mr. Hart says, will constitute an independent circuit. They will be devoted to continuous vaudeville, five performances daily, from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., and will book independent vaudeville attractions.

Sites in Many Cities.

One of the sites already secured in New York, it is stated, is on Eighth avenue, near Forty-second street. Sites have also been leased in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Louisville, and the house in Cincinnati will be the first to open.

Mr. Hart, who is promoting the new movement, says he has been in the show business for some years, but only as manager of the theatrical attractions. It is now his aim to manage and control a playhouse circuit. He announces that the necessary capital has already been subscribed and that his company will soon be incorporated.

REVIVED

Old-Time Health, Eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had been sick for 10 years with dyspepsia and a lot of complications," wrote an Ark. woman.

"An operation was advised, change of climate was suggested, but no one seemed to know just what was the matter. I was in bed three days in the week and got so thin I only weighed 89 lbs. No food seemed to agree with me."

"I told my husband I was going to try some kind of predigestion food to see if I could get from this feeling of continued hunger."

"Grape-Nuts and cream was the food I got and nothing has seemed to satisfy me like it. I never feel hungry. Have had a natural appetite. Have had no nervous spells since I began this food, and have taken no medicine."

"I have gained so much strength that I now do all my housework and feel well and strong. My weight has increased 8 lbs. in 8 weeks and I shall always eat Grape-Nuts as it is far pleasanter than taking medicines."

Out With the Adenoids

"At least two-thirds of all cases of earache and, indeed, five-sixths of all cases of deafness in children are due to adenoids. They also cause arrested development and apparent stupidity." So says Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

Back in your throat, and so high up that you can't see it, there is a place that says, "Welcome, adenoids." But if your children are keeping these undesirable guests you should get them out of the way, without a return ticket.

A prominent educator says: "When I hear a teacher say that a child is stupid, my first instinctive conclusion is either that the child has adenoids or that the teacher is incompetent."

By a very simple operation these adenoids are removed, and many suffering, "dull" children are restored to health and mental vigor.

AUTOISTS PURSUED BOY, WHO THEY THOUGHT, WAS ROLLING A HOOP, AND WERE FOILED

"Catch Him," Cried the Young Woman Emerging From Lindell Boulevard Home.

A young woman ran out on the front porch of a residence near Newstead avenue and Lindell boulevard Wednesday afternoon, crying: "Help, help! Catch him!"

Two young men in an automobile stopped the machine and jumped out. "Which way did he go?" they asked breathlessly.

"Down the street," said the young woman. "You'll know him in a minute. He is wearing a gray overcoat with big black checks."

The young men jumped back in the machine and took up the chase.

"Who do you think it is?" asked one. "Burglar, I guess," said the man at the steering wheel. "Keep your eye skinned for the sporty overcoat."

They had gone three blocks when they caught sight of the coat. Its wearer was just turning the corner at Sarah street.

"Looked to me like a boy rolling a hoop," said one of the pursuers.

"No," said the other, "but we'll chase him anyway and clear up the mystery." As they swung around the corner they called to the boy. He backed up against a house, holding his hands behind him.

"Are you the little boy that was rolling a hoop?" they asked.

"No," he replied. "I was just walking out from behind my coat."

"Of course you were! We can see it sticking out from behind your coat."

"You think you're smart, don't you?" said the boy, withdrawing and exposing to view the object which he had been holding behind him. "Guess you can see that's no hoop. That's my sister's Laura's Merry Widow bonnet. Ain't it a peach?"

THINK OVER OLD TIMES.
BISHOP ADVISES THOSE UNHAPPY IN MARRIAGE

Auto-Suggestion Will Revive Old Love, He Declares in Sermon.

CHICAGO, April 2.—In a sermon last night on "The Psychology of Doubt," Bishop Samuel Fallows explained for the first time in public his system for reuniting estranged married couples. The method used is simple, but the bishop declares that he has used it successfully.

Bishop Fallows said the trouble with most doubters, or unbelievers is that they are auto-suggesting a will in the subconsciousness to continue in love or in marriage. "I make use of it in my efforts to reunite people who have entered into the holy bonds of matrimony and who think they have ceased to love each other."

"The first thing to do when one of these persons comes to me, thing is to have him or her cease to love. It is to get the will in operation to bring to the subconsciousness a consciousness of the past."

"I say to the troubled one, if a woman: 'Go back over your whole life. Go back and reflect on the time that you were married and put them away. Take that love is blind, but this is to be taken in a limited sense as blind to faults. Nothing in the whole world is more keen to see good qualities."

"Now you are blind to the good and taking a magnifying glass to the faults. Go back into the past and think of the way you sacrificed and toiled to make the home. Recall the good times you have had together."

"In this way created, by auto-suggestion, the will to continue in love, which may prove more powerful than the belief that they cannot love."

Cooper County Democrats Also Indorse Roosevelt and Bryan at Boonville Meeting.

BOONVILLE, Mo., April 2.—After endorsing the candidacy of William Jennings Bryan and commending President Roosevelt for his adoption of Democratic principles, the Democratic county convention of Cooper County passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That we believe in the freedom of speech, and in the freedom of the press, but we deplore the policies of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Kansas City Star, newspapers, which pretend to be independently Democratic, and which, by reason thereof, find their way into every campaign, and both in and out of season, exceed their rights and wage a cruel, unscrupulous and seditious warfare on Democratic workers, Democratic candidates and Democratic officials."

A resolution was also adopted recommending J. D. Starke of this county for the nomination for State Treasurer.

Serves Library Thirty Years.
Mrs. Marietta Myers was remembered by her friends when she completed her thirtieth year of service Wednesday afternoon as superintendent of the reading room of the St. Louis Public Library. When she went to her desk she found there a bouquet of 30 roses and 30 carnations and a note conveying congratulations. Mrs. Myers has served the library longer than anyone connected with it except Librarian Crummett, whose term of service exceeds hers by only 15 months.

RYAN, SNUBBED BY ONE NEW YORK CLUB, VETOES PLAN FOR RIVAL BANQUET

Missouri's Scheme for Celebrating Jefferson's Birthday Frustrated.

NEW YORK, April 2.—William J. Bryan telegraphed from Lincoln, Neb., last night, that he would not consider attending a dinner to rival the Jefferson Day dinner, to be held under the auspices of the National Democratic club April 13. Mr. Bryan was invited to attend that club's dinner but was not asked to deliver a speech.

H. H. Hughes of Springfield, Mo., offered $100 toward the expense of celebrating Jefferson's birthday if Mr. Bryan would speak at a rival dinner.

The large ball room at the Waldorf-Astoria was tentatively engaged by Mr. Bryan's friends, but the telegram stopped all plans for a rival dinner.

Mr. Bryan's telegram was as follows: "Lincoln, Neb., April 1.
"Harry Walker, No. 280 Broadway.
"Telegram just received. I am very much embarrassed by your action. Please do nothing regarding myself without first submitting matters to me. We would not consider a rival banquet. Constant publicity very unfortunate."

(Signed) WILLIAM J. BRYAN.
It was after the Democratic club had made it clear that Mr. Bryan was not invited to speak at its Jefferson Day function that Harry Walker formerly of Springfield, Mo., now head of the New York Progressive Democratic League set about arranging the rival affair.

MOVE TO TURN NEW YORK FOR TAFT ON SECOND BALLOT

Friends of Gov. Hughes Indignant at What They Regard as Breach of Faith.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ALBANY, N. Y., April 2.—The invasion of New York State by the Taft workers in direct violation, friends of Gov. Hughes claim, of an agreement or implied promise by Secretary Taft, has aroused anger and alarm among the Governor's backers.

The Taft Organization of New York State assumed formidable proportion when a permanent organization was effected by the election of Robert C. Ogden as president, and George E. Ide as vice-president.

Louis C. Hay took the lead in perfecting the organization.
"Our purpose in starting the Taft Organization of the State of New York," said Mr. Hay, "is to awaken the dormant Taft sentiment which we know exists. The purpose is to force the nomination of Secretary Taft on the second ballot. The organization is to be extended throughout the State. We believe there is strong sentiment in New York for Secretary Taft."

If this is not a violation of what was understood to be the promise of Secretary Taft early in the campaign the Hughes men declare they are unable to see what it is. They say the effect will be to induce the New York delegation to desert their "favorite son" after the first ballot.

MISSING WIFE'S NOTE HINTS SHE WILL COMMIT SUICIDE

Woman Mails Message to Husband
After Disappearance, Giving Directions for Children.

Aaron Tilly of 4318 North Broadway has a long letter from his wife, Mrs. Lillie Tilly, who has been missing since Monday. It was mailed somewhere in St. Louis the day she left home. In it she wrote vaguely of trouble, said she was tired of living and intimated that she was going to kill herself.

She gave careful directions about the children, Harold and Ruth, aged 4 and 3 years, asking that they be sent to her father, James Sampson, at Bellevue, Ill. In closing she said she would bid good-bye forever.

Tilly took the letter to the postoffice, but could ascertain nothing there as to where it had been dropped.

He has learned from women of the neighborhood that his wife went downtown Saturday without his knowledge and purchased a waist, shoes, underwear and a belt, which she wore when she went away.

To Mrs. Glazebrook, living next door, who helped her dress Monday, she said she was going downtown and would be back in an hour.

Mrs. Rose Wilson, 911 Benton street, a sister of Mrs. Tilly.

ST. CHARLES, FIRST CAPITAL OF MISSOURI, NEARS CENTENNIAL Celebration.

Town Was Incorporated in 1809
and Residents Plan Jubilee

St. Charles will be 100 years old next year and the people of the town are beginning to agitate for a celebration. According to old records in the office of the City Clerk the town was incorporated Nov. 2, 1808. The Court of Common Pleas found that the petition for incorporation "completely" complied with the law of the territory in such cases made and provided and appointed Alexander McNair and Dr. Reynolds commissioners.

The decree of incorporation was signed by Timothy Kibby, James Flaugherty, Francis Sauter and Robert Spencer. McNair later became the first Governor of Missouri and St. Charles became its first capital.

William Christy Jr. was the clerk of the court at the time the village was incorporated. Dr. Antoine Reynolds was the first physician in the district of St. Charles.

HISTORIC WATER PIPE FOUND

NEW YORK, April 2.—Workmen excavating at Canal and Center streets found a section of the wooden water pipe that was laid 98 years ago by the Manhattan Co., whose counsel, Aaron Burr, had laid a few years earlier the foundation of the Manhattan Co.'s banking business.

That company, which now conducts one of the best-known banks in New York, was originally chartered to sell water in the city. The pipe found was part of the water-carrying system. The company still maintains a small water reservoir to comply with its charter.

TWO CROWDS OF HEIRS FIGHTING FOR ONE ESTATE

One Set Says Man Was Married, Other Calls Him Bachelor.

DIED INTESTATE HERE

Evidence Includes Photographic Copies of Handwriting Made in Germany.

Judge Holtcamp of the Probate Court has taken under advisement the evidence introduced to prove that Nicholas Klein, who died in St. Louis in 1904, was the uncle of numerous Kleins who now live in Germany, and also other evidence tending to show he was not the uncle of these Kleins, but was the father of other Kleins living in another part of Germany.

Judge Holtcamp has before him a mass of evidence, including photographic copies of pages of records in Germany bearing the signature of one Nicholas Klein.

Signatures Almost Identical. This signature was compared with Nicholas Klein's signature at the German Savings Institution, and an expert declared them to be similar, though some of them are in the German script.

Klein was an eccentric old man, who died in his room over the International Bank, Fourth and Chestnut streets, in 1904. His estate amounts to about $10,000. As he left no will, the Public Administrator took charge of the estate. He caused it to be advertised in Germany, with the result that two sets of claimants have appeared.

One set, alleging that Nicholas Klein was never married, say they are heirs through a sister.

Another set, alleging that Nicholas Klein was married and they are his daughters and granddaughters.

Judge Holtcamp is expected to decide during the testimony in the Probate Court Wednesday afternoon Michael Murphy, who knew Klein, testified, pointing at Attorney W. R. Gentry: "At one time he was as bald as you are, but his hair grew out again."

"I object to the witness referring to my baldness," exclaimed Attorney Gentry. "My baldness has nothing to do with this case."

"Objection sustained," said Judge Holtcamp. "It is one of the rules of this court that in comparisons of baldness, this court's head alone shall be used."

ALIENIST, MADE INSANE BY WORK FOR THE INSANE, DIES

During Lucid Interval Dr. Gillette Told of Resisting Suicidal Mania.

DETROIT, Mich., April 1.—Dr. Wilbur Gillette, a well-known alienist, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage. Dr. Gillette once was an examining physician for the Probate Court, and during his term examined more than 1000 cases. In May, 1906, he became himself a sufferer from brain disease and was removed for two months to a retreat.

On his discharge he gave the newspapers an interesting analysis of his condition, drawing the conclusion from his own symptoms that most suicides are insane. He said he had fought an impulse to kill himself, and graphically told how a small lance, which the asylum attendants overlooked when searching him, was a constant temptation.

Retired Leader of Miners Says He Works for Peace.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 2.—John Mitchell, retired president of the United Mine Workers of America, whose future has been a matter of conjecture, today announced that he will establish and operate in Indianapolis a labor paper with its special object the continuance of industrial peace between the miners and operators of the country.

"My hope is that I can carry out my ideal to its fullest fruition," he said. "Not only will my paper devote itself to the work of the mining industry, but all labor in general."

MME. GOULD, ILL. WINS THE SYMPATHY OF HER FAMILY

Efforts to Avert Breach Follow Sickness of Prince Helie's Alleged Fiancee.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Evidence is forthcoming today that efforts are being made to check a family breach occasioned by Mme. Anna Gould's reported determination to accept the hand of the Prince Helie de Sagan.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould visited Mme. Gould at the Hotel St. Regis, where she still is in bed, suffering from bronchitis. Other relatives, including Helen M. Gould and George J. Gould, evinced their concern by repeated telegraphic inquiries, which were promptly answered.

Edwin A. Jones, attorney, said he was authorized by Mme. Gould to say that she had had no disagreement with her family.

Diamond Workers to Cease Work.
AMSTERDAM, April 2.—The Diamond Workers' Union today by a vote of 5001 to 390 decided on the complete cessation of work during the month of April. This will affect 10,000 men in the polishing and allied trades. When work is resumed the union intends to demand higher wages for its members.

MAN WHO TRIED TO CARRY 14-YEAR-OLD GIRL OFF IN A CAB IS LOCKED UP

Claims Father of Her Sweetheart Objected to Marriage Because of Her Youth.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Andrea Sipka, whose love for pretty Pauline Labose, 14, led him to try to run away with the girl, is in a police station and will be charged with trying to kidnap Pauline.

Andrea, a peddler, has lived in the same house with Pauline for a year. His love has grown steadily for the girl, who looks much older than she is. Andrea says Pauline's father knew of his love and only objected to an immediate marriage because of his daughter's age.

Today Andrea drove in a cab to where Pauline passed daily going to work in a cigar factory.

When the girl approached Andrea sprang out of the cab, threw a cloth over her head and tried to drag her into the carriage. Her struggles and screams attracted a crowd and a policeman hurried to the spot. When he saw them coming Andrea deserted the girl and ran. The police overhauled him.

PROPOSED TO BY 4 WIDOWS, RICH MAN IS CAUTIOUS

Ewald Siebert Says He Will Investigate Each Application Carefully.

ONE WOMAN VISITS HIM

Mrs. Anna Mallette of St. Louis Rejected by Belleville Bachelor.

Ewald Siebert, 35 years old, of Belleville, announced Thursday that he is in no haste to wed any of the widows who are seeking his hand—a hand that can write a check for $50,000.

While not as distrustful of "widows" in general as Sam Weller, Siebert says he may as well investigate all applicants carefully, now that they are becoming numerous, before naming the prize-winner.

Three Propose by Mail.
Siebert had three reasons for rejecting the offer of matrimony taken to him in person by Mrs. Anna Mallette of 2615 St. Louis avenue. One was Mrs. Louis Agleston of 427 Grand View street, Los Angeles. Another was Mrs. Anna Smith of 3238 Brooklyn street, Kansas City. A third was a woman of Richmond Heights, St. Louis, whose name he refuses to divulge.

Like Mrs. Mallette, these three women proposed to Siebert by mail. While Siebert was pondering over their missives and comparing the ardent and earnestness of the rival proposals, Mrs. Mallette sought to execute a coup by presenting herself in person.

She went to Belleville and telephoned to Siebert at the farm of Jacob Ackermann, four miles out, where he has bachelor apartments. Siebert brought it was an April fool joke and refused to go to Belleville. So Mrs. Mallette went to Siebert.

Siebert talked over the proposition with Mrs. Mallette, drove her back to Belleville, had her as his guest at luncheon and then sent her back to St. Louis without a definite acceptance of his offer.

Siebert's popularity with husband-seeking widows resulted from his arrest on a charge of drunkenness St. Patrick's day, followed by a burlesque attempt at suicide in Justice Wangelin's court. Siebert tried to borrow a revolver and a rope and poison with which to kill himself. The publication of this story in the Post-Dispatch, with the fact that he was a wealthy bachelor, brought the love letters.

Letters Penned Same Day.

Since her Belleville visit Mrs. Mallette has not been at home to callers at her St. Louis avenue home.

The communications of Mrs. Mallette and her three rivals were written the same day, March 27. Mrs. Mallette describes herself as 48 years old, and says she will make him a good, true wife.

The Richmond Heights woman tells Siebert she doesn't believe a man of his age ought to drink in public. She says she might keep him from getting lonely. She tells him to write to her in care of the "notion store" at the Richmond Heights address.

Mrs. Anna Smith relates that she is 56 and has four children—"all away from home." She appeals to Siebert on geographical grounds, stating that she is a native of Glen Carbon, Ill. She says "mischief took possession" of her and caused her to write, but assures Siebert that "I am a lady, even if I am doing an unlady-like thing."

Mrs. Agleston of Los Angeles writes a cultured letter on four sheets of "union skin" paper. After telling him she read of his trouble in a newspaper, she says:

"I am satisfied that a man of your age, who would rather take his life than face the disgrace of a trial for drunkenness, is not bad; also that he would make a good husband."

Asks Him to Visit Her.
She says she is 58, pleasant-tempered and comfortably situated, but that the fact that Siebert is "well supplied with the Almighty Dollar" does not make him any the less attractive to her. She invites him to visit her.

"There's no need of being hasty," Siebert said Thursday, "when they're all after you like that. Mrs. Mallette is a very fine lady, but she has had two husbands already. The bachelor's life is the life for me unless some woman comes along who thinks she can show me a better kind."

EIGHTEENTH STREET BRIDGE CASE DECIDED AGAINST CITY
Supreme Court Holds Municipality Began Action to Recover on Bond Too Soon.

The City of St. Louis has lost its suit to recover from the Union Depot Association, and the Terminal Railway Association, $100,000 on the bonds of these two companies for their share of the expense of building the Eighteenth street bridge over the railroad yards.

The ground on which the suit is decided against the city by the Supreme Court is the same as that advanced by the lower Court—that the city attempted to recover on the bonds before it had let the contracts for the building of the bridge. Judge Graves finds that at the time the money was claimed by the city contracts had been let only for two of the foundation piers.

GRAIN MEN SAY INSPECTION IS NOT IMPARTIAL

Grain Dealers Control Present System, Says Advocate of New Plan.

SHIPPERS OPPRESSED

St. Louisans Before Congressional Committee at Hearing on Measure.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Absolute control of the grain trade of the United States by four thousand dealers, and a system of inspection in their interest in St. Louis and Kansas City, and in Kansas and Nebraska, were charges made today before the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

The charges were made by E. R. Beall of Kansas City, representing the Kansas Independent Grain Dealers' Association. Mr. Beall spoke in behalf of the McCumber bill for Federal grain inspection.

With him here are T. R. Ballard and T. B. Townsend of St. Louis, and grain dealers from the Northwest, who will speak to the committee during the hearing.

Mr. Beall said the four thousand dealers controlling the grain trade belong to the boards of trade of the country. From their number, he said, the boards of appeals from decisions of State grain inspectors were chosen. Therefore, he declared, the grain producers had no relief.

Says Check Is Mixed.

He charged that many Board of Trade dealers mixed inferior grain with good grain, and sold it as good grain, though it was purchased from the producers as number four, passing it as number two.

In many instances, he said, seed and chaff were mixed with good grain in the elevators. Machines were used in certain elevators, he declared, to polish poor grain to deceive the eye of inspectors and purchasers.

If the producers appealed to the appeal committee, he said, they got no relief. Federal inspection, Mr. Beall said, would take appeals out of the hands of the Board of Trade and give producers a fair deal. It would also make standards of grade uniform, whereas now they vary from state to state.

RACETRACK INTERESTS LOSE IN THE NEW YORK SENATE

Anti-Betting Amendment, Which Assembly Has Adopted, Now in Order of Passage.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 2.—By a vote of 27 to 19, in the Senate today, the Hart amendment to the Percy-Gray law, one of the anti-racetrack gambling bills, which already has passed the Assembly, was substituted for the Agnew bill, which is identical with it and which was advanced late last night after 15 hours' debate. This amendment, if finally passed, will end racetrack betting in New York State. The motion to substitute was made in order to get the bill before the Senate in order of final passage.

The backbone of the opposition was completely broken. Senator Grady, however, made a protest on points of order and tried to prevent the action.

FLOUR RATES ARE DISCUSSED

Effort Being Made to Abolish the Bridge Arbitrary on Grain.

A committee representing the eastern and southeastern lines out of St. Louis will confer with the Municipal Bridge and Terminal Commission regarding the absorption of the bridge arbitrary on all milling-in-transit traffic—grain shipped to St. Louis and then sent east as flour.

At a meeting at the Hotel Jefferson Wednesday afternoon, all the eastern and southeastern lines except the Southern & Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis, were represented. These must be consulted before the plan can become effective, and it must have the endorsement of the western roads. D. T. McCabe, vice-president of the Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, says he believes the arbitrary will be abolished on this class of traffic.

POPULISTIC INJUSTICE TO BRYAN.

In their newly developed animosity to Mr. Bryan the Populists who meet in St. Louis today are likely to do injustice to a man who has done more for them than they ever did for him.

Their grievance appears to be that Mr. Bryan did not openly bolt the nomination of Judge Parker in 1904 and support Thomas E. Watson, who was their candidate then, as he expects to do again this year. The Populist objection to Mr. Parker was that he was a Democrat with plutocratic and machine affiliations. No genuine Populist could support him, and the election returns show that none did.

Recalling the fact that the Populist party was founded in the first place upon intense hostility to both of the old parties, it is easy to understand why its members should turn upon Judge Parker, but they have as good a reason for favoring Mr. Bryan now as they had in 1896 or 1900. There has been no great change in him, and many people think that his chances now are better than they were then.

Mr. Bryan's leadership enabled the Populists to gain control of a great party organization and gave them a position in the political world which they could not otherwise have hoped to secure. He was more loyal to them than they were to him, as is shown by the decrease in his electoral votes in the populist states in 1900. While he nominally supported Judge Parker in 1904, he made it known that he was not particularly interested in his candidacy and did not expect him to be elected.

It is a remarkable state of affairs when the best man and the ablest man that Populism has produced is repudiated by it and Democrats in many places are endorsing him as the one candidate who can unite the two parties at the polls.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT OBSTRUCTION.

It is difficult to meet the views of the St. Louis Health Department. In the matter of the regulation of bakeries it objected to the first bill presented in the Municipal Assembly because its authority was not recognized. When another measure was drawn conferring power upon the Health Commissioner it opposed favorable action, on the ground that it did not have a sufficient force at its disposal.

This sort of backing and filling must be regarded as indicative of a woful lack of interest in a matter which would naturally be supposed to appeal to the Department very forcibly. A Health Department which complains when it is ignored and then pleads a fear of overwork when it is asked to do its duty evidently is in need of some sharp admonitions from the Mayor.

The conditions existing in many small bakeries, as recently described in these columns and made the subject of official report, are so shocking that the Health Department's inaction under its general powers amounts to a grave delinquency. No great amount of red tape should be necessary to correct evils so glaring and certainly no apprehension of increased labor can be decently urged against a measure intended only to safeguard the public health.

The failure of the bakery inspection bill at this session of the Assembly seems to be attributable wholly to the interference of the Health Department, first for the reason that it had been ignored and lastly for the weaker excuse that it had not been ignored. It insisted upon more work and when the duty was presented to it it begged off on the plea of overwork.

There will be a bakery inspection law in due time, but it should have been had now.

HYMEN'S PRETTY MESS.

Hymen's prominent business this spring is rather varied, not to say mixed, and upon the whole it discloses Hymen to be a rather impish young person.

Miss Shonta has married the Duc, and Hymen's magic has caused her papa to love him for his debts. Miss Elkins is thinking about marrying the Duke, and what her papa is thinking is not fit for publication. Mme. Gould, having quit the Court, will positively wed the Prince.

On the other hand, Miss Thaw has had herself annulled from the Earl. Miss Maloney, as soon as properly annulled from Mr. Osborne, will be led to the altar by Mr. Samuel Clarkson of London. Miss Nesbit is a plaintiff in similar proceedings, with the difference that the defendant's successor is not named yet; while another lady of prominence in the saffron set elopes romantically with the coachman as groom, and lets her first husband file divorce proceedings afterwards.

The mess Hymen makes of mortal affairs is doubtless what provoked the well-known exclamation of his playmate Puck.

Two battleships that started on the world cruise are to be sent back to the Atlantic for "reconstruction." Does this prove Emperor William's theory that the entire fleet will be worn out when its journey is ended?

Wednesday the river stage was just 14 feet. This was at the foot of Market street, however, and had no reference to the valley. Parts of the channel through the valley are 14 feet out of water.

Gotham stock exchanges have closed their galleries to keep out anarchists. But what harm could anarchists do in stock exchanges anyway, I should think as they are?

"STICKING TO" A POPULAR PURPOSE.

When Gov. Folk says that if the Supreme Court should invalidate the primary law for any reason he would immediately summon the Legislature in special session to enact another, he lays down a principle which ought to be widely recognized and universally acted upon.

There is a disposition everywhere to abandon effort in any direction when the courts find fatal defects in laws for which there has been a great public demand. In this way the Impression is created that the courts rule the land contrary to the people's will and that attempts at reform or progress are useless.

Demagogues and ignorance have been advocating for some time the abolition or the restriction of the power of courts in these matters, when it is plain enough that the judgments rendered do not usually go to the objects of the acts annulled but pertain only to the methods by which it has been sought to reach them.

In fact, a court rarely invalidates a law without stating in simple terms how it might have been made unobjectionable. It always gives reasons for holding it to be unconstitutional. There remains, then, for the people and the Legislature one of two courses. If the constitutional objection cannot be cured an amendment is always in order. If the criticism apply only to the language used, correction and re-enactment are comparatively easy.

It is a fair inference that the people of Missouri are overwhelmingly in favor of a direct primary law. Their representatives have passed such a measure. If the court should find some fatal defect in the act, no higher duty would devolve upon the Legislature than to make the necessary corrections and re-enact the law. In this way only can popular government be reconciled with constitutional government and made effective.

Congress now has under consideration various bills designed to meet judicial objections to laws passed some time ago. To fall in pressing these measures to passage would be to admit that the legislative department was insincere in the first place, or that, having made a mistake, it is hardly worth while to correct it. This comes too near a confession that popular government is a matter of caprice to be agreeable to anybody.

The possibility of a special session in Missouri has been met in some places with the protest that State funds are low and that the treasury cannot meet the expense. In a case of this kind the cost is the last thing that should be considered. A few thousand dollars more or less in the expense of government should not weigh for an instant against the enforcement of the public will.

It is to be hoped, of course, that no defects will be found in the primary law, but if a case should be carried up and the court should rule against the enactment, Gov. Folk would be fully justified in calling the Legislature and asking for a new law at once.

JEFF DAVIS' SIDE OF THE STORY.

Some men are better at explaining defeats than at fighting battles. It has never been for Jeff Davis to say tersely with the Roman hero: Veni, vici, vixi. But he is a greater than Caesar and in fact one of the greatest adepts the world has ever listened to at telling how and why he got licked.

Except in the recent case at the hustings in which he was commonly reported to have struck the opposing candidate for Governor while a third man plied the opponent's arms, it is noteworthy that Jeff is always imposed upon by his adversary in a personal encounter.

Concerning the late unpleasantness at Little Rock he issued a post-bellum bulletin in part as follows:

I crossed to the clear stand, and I noticed Tom Helm standing there talking to a gentleman whom I did not know. I passed almost by them when Helm struck me with a loaded "bat" near the temple, dazing me and causing me to drop my knocking cane. He struck at me a second lick, which knocked my hat off.

Jeff did not wait for any more. His sense of self-preservation is very acute. It is an interesting picture that fancy draws of the statesman in retreat, sans hat, sans cane, hair and coatails flying, and doing the 100 yards in about 10 flat. Says he:

I ran to my office in the Reigler Building, got my navy six-shooter and, returning, I saw Helm running like a coward.

Let us lament the precipitation of Helm while praising the courage of Jeff. And yet, why did not Jeff run after him? Jeff had demonstrated to himself that he could run. Why did Jeff content himself with standing on the vacated field of battle and making a warlike demonstration?

Certain material facts appear to be admitted in this case, and certain other things are self-evident. Jeff is a great big man. Tom Helm is not. Jeff was armed in the first place with a heavy gold-headed cane. Whether Tom really hit him with a "bat" or just with his fists must remain a question. Jeff minutely describes the bat, but how could he have seen it when he was not struck until he had "passed almost by," as he says?

We may likewise reserve a doubt about Tom's running. But that the valiant Senator from Arkansas when attacked dropped his cane and "lit out" up the street as fast as his truly astonishing legs could carry him is the most certain, the great admitted, manifest and really remarkable fact of the case. Jeff says that Tom ran "like a coward." What did Jeff run like?

DAMAGES BY THE GOAT.

Unless the goat's part is distinctly set forth in the ritual, the Court of Appeals holds that a lodge candidate injured by the goat in initiatory exercises cannot recover damages against the lodge.

We concur in the finding, but regret that we feel ourselves obliged to dissent from the reasoning, holding as we do that the principle of assumed risk debars the candidate from recovery in any case, whether the goat's performance is described beforehand or not.

What did the candidate expect, anyway? What did he think a goat was for? What is a goat naturally calculated to do? What was the candidate's point of view and why did he not wear a pillow over the exposed or vulnerable area? These questions, we think, effectually rebut any demand for damages.

Gen. Cokey is a man who has devoted much of his time to the study and the advocacy of good roads. He knows roads theoretically and practically. If any man living is able to tell the Populists the road to the White House he should be the one.

The Honorable Frank Hussey, with the injustice of his forty-fourth arrest ranking in his breast, has appealed to the grand jury for satisfaction. That is what grand juries are for. It is a pleasing thing to see Mr. Hussey in the role of a plaintiff.

There will be genuine sympathy for Admiral Evans, whose illness seems likely to prevent him from concluding his notable career. Let us hope that it will not express itself, as usual, in sending him sure cures for rheumatism.

Vice-President Fairbanks would revise the tariff right away, while the Republicans control all departments of government. From the standpoint of the protectees this may be considered fairly good advice.

The St. Louis boy evangelist who predicted that the world would come to an end yesterday will now have to settle with the disappointed sinners who were converted on that basis.

The Bryan Populists of Nebraska must have felt like orphans when they struck the middle of the road in St. Louis.

The parlor socialists and anarchists in New York are on the run just now. They did not mean it.

No blockade of his ports will do justice to Castro. He ought to be exhibited in this country.

Perhaps there is no such thing as a street car fender.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Is Roosevelt to Blame?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A few years ago, when the farmers of the West were selling corn at 10 cents a bushel and many of them were using it for fuel, as cheaper than wood and coal, Mary Ellen Lease of Kansas gave the farmers to "raise more corn—less corn." I think Roosevelt has acted on the same suggestion, for he has "raised more corn—less corn" than any resident this country has ever had.

Where Should Walkers Walk?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Vacation time is near at hand for this section of the country. My favorite way to spend my two weeks' vacation is in walking tours, and as I am now figuring on my coming vacation, I would like to hear from some of the walking fraternity, as to the proper way to spend a week or two's vacation, also as to equipment, clothes, shoes, etc. This is an important item, and would like other ideas than my own. Walking is one of the healthiest exercises one can take, and with a good kodak, the proper kind of outfit in the shape of dress, etc., a good and pretty country to walk through, there isn't a pleasanter way to spend a week or two's vacation, and one of God's greatest blessings is a pair of sturdy legs.

Charity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am a working man, work every day, and I never have had to ask any charitable organization for help. I have helped all that I thought needed it, and I have given when I really needed and when one is asked me I referred them to the Salvation Army, and what did they get? Nothing. The army has money on the street, in saloons, everywhere. What do they give for charity? They beg their horse feed; they beg their rent. To tell the truth, they pay for nothing. Everything is given to them with the understanding they give it to the needy, which they do not. Ow N. M. B. P., please go to them and show them your feet are on the ground and see if they give you a pair of stockings, let alone a pair of shoes. I went for the experience and asked for help. What did I get? Nothing but advice, which anyone can give.

"Anti Submerged."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Mr. Latta's attitude toward that class of people who are represented by those signing themselves "Submerged," is correct. He is very fair; in fact, he is generous in his views, and I have no hesitancy in saying that he, beyond question, voices the sentiments of all sober-minded men and women of today. "Live within your means," "Save a part of what you earn each month," should be the slogan of every well-thinking person. It is the one principle and only principle by which the successful men of any age have advanced, especially the men who started with a small salary and strong manhood as capital. I have lived and worked amongst the "wage-earners" for some time. When you chide them about their spendthrift ways they answer, if married, "My family can have what they want—clothes, food, luxuries or anything else, so long as I am able to provide." If single they say, "We're never young but once, so I'm going to have a good time."

The Underemployed Man.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
An article appearing in your Sunday's issue, March 23, headed "Overemployed Woman," should have been read by every unemployed man. How many hundreds of unemployed men have read it and have said, "I am not doing as I should, my wife is working hard, I am not trying to assist her at her work." Are we to blame the women for this. I know a young fellow who has been married some ten months; his wife makes $12 per week, he does nothing but loaf and play pool. I am sure he is making no attempt to get employment. I am practically a stranger in St. Louis, am out of work, and while my wife is making $5 per week waiting table I do all the work at home and have plenty of time to look for employment. This marching of the unemployed does no good, and I heartily agree with the writer of "Overemployed Woman." Yesterday I did our washing and was not ashamed of my fellow-roomers knowing it, although they laughed at me. If I am not at work by next Monday I shall do the same again.

Sunday Closing of Stores.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
If the City Council wishes to pass a law and to give us all a fair show, let them pass a law whereby we are all treated alike; let the grocer close his store at 10 p. m. Saturday night and not open until 5 a. m. on Monday following, which would give him a day of rest. The Butchers' Association have a law passed to close at 9 a. m. on a Sunday. Do they close? Some do and some do not; at some places you buy meats as late as 11 a. m.; of course, it comes through the grocery store. If they really want a law passed and to make them all alike, let each and every one of the businesses be separate of each other; do not allow a saloon in a grocery store. Do not allow a meat market in a grocery store or do not allow a grocer to handle anything that belongs to either of the above. Let the saloon keeper run the saloon; let the butcher sell meats only, no groceries, and let the grocer sell their groceries. If the butchers wish to stay open on Sunday let them do so, but not allow them to sell or handle any groceries, and not have any two in the same house.

ASSURANCE.

If you think that people are not mostly given to a solemn observation of conditions, you should read the letter column. And observe how evil does in. This debate, and what persistence many minds display at working out the problem of existence.

Is there any having knowledge of justice who would end it. He may simply write a letter. And put up two cents to send it. And the public will devour it. And debate it, and digest it. Till they know it good or evil. And if evil, they will best it.

Is there any with suggestion? All he has to do is name it. In a well-indited letter. And the matter will be sifted. In that most painstaking forum called the Letters of the People. With precision and decorum.

What a world of wars and errors in the ages antiquated. Were avoided had grave matters been as thoroughly debated. By the level-headed masses. In the manner sane and solemn. That obtains today, thank Heaven, in the people's letter column!

What a lot of rogues had fallen from their undeserved revel in the sweets of place and power. And what innocents the Devil had relinquished to the angels. From a thousand years of fetters. Had there always been a column for the people's candid letters!

What a better light had guided our forefathers on the blessing of a good old people's column. Had but been of their possessing. That they might have put on matters their own sensible construction. In a forum where full justice is the ultimate deduction!

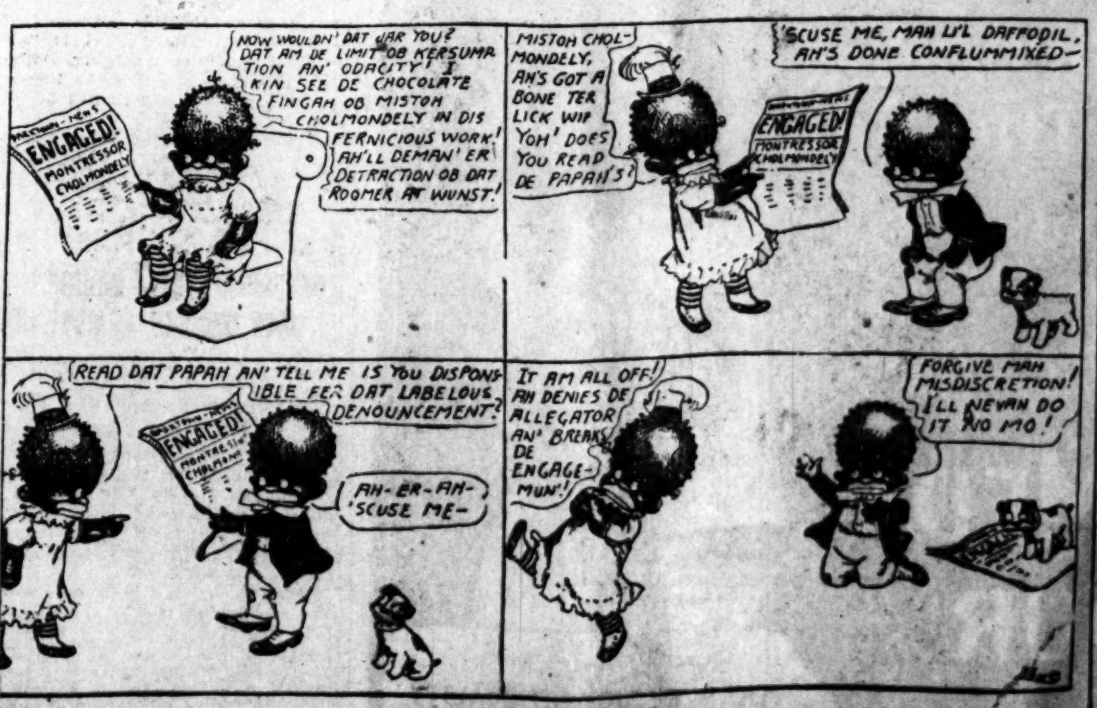

If you fear that we are drifting in an indelicate direction. Or that popular opinion may be losing circumspection. Do not be in that opinion. Until you have first interviewed The People's letter column.

A Narrative in Six Chapters of a Lonely Youth's Infatuations.

CHAPTER IV.

No. 4 and a Villain.

"DIDN'T you know I was married?"

Maggie's eyes were full. She had a tearful reproach. "Why, I've been married for weeks—you know my husband." She blushed furiously, but laughed and added, "Mr. Thompson."

IVAN WHIN

"I missed you, but didn't know what had become of you," Garrett said. He was glad she was married, but he wished she had not called during banking hours. She had sent up a note from the banking room signed "Maggie" and he found her waiting with another woman whom she introduced as Mrs. Berg.

"I know you're on pins and needles to be back at that ledger, but I'll wait," said the advice of a banker, and I knew you could help her, and it won't take a minute. You see her husband died and she has settled up part of his business and she has some checks. She never had a bank account and she wants to know how to cash them."

Wilhelmina Berg had drawn the checks from her bags and offered them for inspection. There were five of them, one from a man who owed her husband on account and four from insurance companies and societies.

"Isn't it funny," Maggie said, "she's got $7,000 in checks and I had to pay her street car fare downtown. She hasn't got so much as a penny in cash."

Garrett looked at the widow for the first time. Business steadied his nerve. He saw that she was about 30 years old, very fair and rosy, small beside Maggie's height and bulk, but not tiny, baby-blue eyes and confiding manner. "You ought to open an account and deposit the checks," he said to her. "Where did your husband do his banking?"

"Well then, this is the bank for you. Come. I will introduce you to the cashier." Garrett was elated with this opportunity. Men who ambushed to anything in the estimation of the bank's officers were those whose friends deposited largely in the bank. Such an account as this would raise his stock immensely. He learned while waiting for the cashier to be at leisure that her husband's business was still to be closed up and that it had many bewildering ramifications. She had received offers from would-be purchasers, but did not know what to do. He saw the account would exceed the total of the checks.

He introduced the ladies to the cashier with quite an air, laid the checks before the keen-eyed young official and added a word of explanation in which he conveyed information concerning the business yet to be closed. Garrett noted with satisfaction that he immediately gained importance in the eyes of the cashier and that Mrs. Berg depended on him entirely in the transaction. When all the formalities were completed and the ladies were going Mrs. Berg said: "I wish you would come to see me, Mr. Garrett. I know you are very busy, but if you could spare a little time—I want the advice of some disinterested business man so bad. All the men I know either don't know anything about business or they are interested in getting the better of me."

"Most certainly I will," he said, seeing that she was giving him the best chance to control her banking business that he could wish. "Tonight, if you say."

"O, thank you." She almost wept so glad she was to lean upon the man she thought he was.

Maggie said she wouldn't ask him to call on her, intimating that there might be embarrassment in it and they went away laughing.

Mrs. Berg's home was in a little "place" off Euclid, near Easton—a comfortable house, in fact, a bit imposing. She admitted Garrett herself. Her greeting was excited and effusive. A large, dark-whiskered man was seated in the parlor. He nodded slightly when introduced as Mr. Hoover.

"Mr. Garrett," said Mrs. Berg, complacently, "is my business adviser."

"Well, if he's got the sense of a hop-toad he'll tell you're a fool not to take my offer," said Hoover ungraciously.

That was just the sort of thing to do Garrett good. "What is your offer?" he demanded.

"I told her I'd take the business as it stands, debts, credits, machinery, stock orders and all, and pay her $10,000; $5000 down and the balance in five notes for one to five years."

Garrett knew only vaguely that Berg had dealt in pumps, windmills and drilling machinery. How much of a factory he had or what selling agencies Garrett did not know. However, it seemed probable that a business worth $10,000 could be sold on better terms.

Garrett smiled on Hoover.

"Well?" said the black beard. "What you laughing at? Can you do better?"

"Some better," Garrett still smiled.

Hoover shifted uneasily. Mrs. Berg still complacent, sat silent.

"You think it over, Mr. Hoover. We're not ready to trade. I want to take an inventory and—well, there are a lot of things to look into."

"I'll make it all cash," said Hoover. His eyes were very bright.

"No. We'll get a better price and get cash, too."

"Look here, Mrs. Berg," Hoover roared. "I don't know who this dude is. Anyhow, what does he know about the value of Berg's business? I'm the only man that does know, and I say $10,000 cash is big for it. It'll strain me to pay it all down, but I'll do it. Nobody else will give half of that. You know me and what I say goes."

Mrs. Berg was jarred by his vehemence, but she evidently had cause to believe that Hoover was not as disinterested as he tried to appear. She said very decidedly: "Mr. Garrett is a business man—a banker, and I have confidence in him."

When blackbeard growled himself out of the house she told Garrett all she knew about her husband's business. Hoover had been one of Berg's salesmen. He sold windmills and drillers and superintended their erection. Berg had said that Hoover was invaluable to a man who knew all about him, but he watched him like a hawk. Hoover tried to buy the business the day after the funeral, and had been hounding her ever since. Two other employees of Berg had sounded her for a price, but they had very little money. A rival concern also wanted to buy. She would prefer to sell to the two young men. They were in charge at present. Her lawyer had looked into the business a little and found that it earned $3000 net Berg's last year.

Then $10,000 is a silly price," said Garrett.

"So I thought, but they all tell me that without Mr. Berg it is only worth the stock and machinery. That's why I wanted your help."

It was very pretty to be placed on a pedestal by a pretty woman.

"Maggie told me you were her friend and I want you to be my friend."

"Before I can advise you I'll have to go into the books and learn something about the business," Garrett wanted her to understand the work involved.

"If you'll only do it I'll see that you are well paid," Mrs. Berg, for all her prettiness, was very practical, he found, and they presently arrived at a thorough understanding.

"Maggie told me you were very shy, but I haven't found you so," she confided as they were parting.

"I am," he admitted, "but this is business."

"Oh, I hope we will be friends, too," she murmured. Already the widow was sitting up and taking notice.

Out in the street Garrett felt the need of walking to cool his blood. Suddenly an opportunity had been opened for his advancement. With such a lift as Mrs. Berg's business he ought to get a substantial increase in salary. And for a time he would be earning a large sum extra. It might, after all, be possible to marry Nettie—if she would have him. If? Modest as he was, he had small doubt.

But then, why Nettie? A new thought arose. Mrs. Berg was rich, was kind, was pretty. True, she was older than he; but with her money could he not break free from the bondage of ledgers and have a business of his own? He was broad awake, but dreaming dreams. He was walking south on Euclid. He crossed Fountain Park, and just as he emerged met in the glare of a street lamp the black-bearded Hoover.

"Hello," said that worthy, "going to marry the widow?"

"No," said Garrett. "Hoover's laugh was probably caused by jealousy, but it did not sound jovial."

"We'll confine our conversations to business," Garrett snapped, and moved

FIRST LESSON IN DANCING FOR LITTLE FOLK.

No. 1. How to Train Children in the Graceful Way They Should Grow. Written for the Post-Dispatch.

By Mlle. GENEE, Famous Danseuse.

EVERY well-formed child should learn to dance, and it is possible for fathers and mothers, with the aid of suggestions here given, to teach their little children steps and movements which will make them strong and graceful.

Not only is dancing the best form of physical culture, particularly for women, but it helps both boy and girl to overcome the painfully awkward period known as the ungainly age.

The girl or boy who knows how to dance, and who has been trained from childhood in grace and suppleness, will not be conscious of its arms and legs when these embarrassing members grow too long and lank.

Dancing has a reflex action on a child's mentality. At little dances who knows that she has mastered some part of her art and controls some of the muscles of her little body has more poise, more self-possession, than the child who arms and legs are flung about at random without thought of grace or beauty.

To learn to control one's body perfectly is what dancing teaches us, and it's the first step in learning to control the mind.

When I say that well-formed children should know how to dance, I do not mean that those to whom nature has been less kind should miss the pleasure and the exhilaration of dancing when this is possible. I know a young girl with a club foot who goes to dances and has many partners. Though she cannot rival her more favored friends in the art, the persistency which she has practiced in learning to dance has greatly overcome her slight limp and has also made her less conscious of her affliction.

I began my studies in dancing at the age of eight, and that is not too young for other children to learn.

My first months of practice were devoted to foot, leg and knee exercises which I performed while holding onto a bar. Here I practiced the different positions of the feet and limbs until I was so far along that I could keep my balance without holding to the bar.

I did not practice toe-dancing for some time after that and I don't consider it well to teach a child to stand on the tips of the toes until the feet are stronger and the leg and instep muscles well developed.

Many people believe that because a dancer stands on the tips of her toes and because her feet are strong and muscular that they are differently or perhaps not so well formed as others. This is quite erroneous, however. The child who learns the correct use of its feet in dancing, who always wears well-shaped shoes and slippers, need never fear blemishes of any kind. The feet of the best dancers are usually perfect. And if they show the slightest blemish or malformation the dancers have themselves and not their art to blame.

The little dancer should be especially carefully shod, wearing well arched shoes or slippers made of carefully prepared leather.

A child's costume for dancing exercise should consist of short skirts with knickerbockers beneath and flat shoes with rounded ankles.

If a bar is not available in the home, the back of a heavy chair will do. The chair should reach to within shoulder height of the child. The exercises should be done through on a wooden floor, but resin is not necessary until actual dancing begins.

These are the positions, and parents can put their children through them with ease. A half hour's practice at a time will accomplish wonders, and not fatigue the child.

Stand with heels together, toes turned outward so as to form a right angle. The upper part of the body should be slightly inclined forward, hips a little back. The forward inclination is very slight, just enough to cause a tendency in the heels to rise from the floor. The head should be erect and the legs straight, one arm grasping the rod and the other hanging by the side, with the elbow very slightly turned outward so that the arms will present a gently curved line; the hand should not drop straight, but the fingers should curve easily inward. This is the normal attitude of the body when dancing, and should be preserved at all times.

Second Position. Stand on one foot, extending the other directly to the side as far as the toe will reach. Point the toe down and keep the legs straight.

Hoover accompanied him.

"Say," he remarked, "you got the old girl buffaloed and I know it. I want that business and you want the woman. Now, I'll make you a private offer that you can take or let alone. I'll give you $500 to pull off the deal for me. Now, listen, I'm offering a good price to her. No one can do better. I know the trade and I want the trademarks. I've sold Berg's mills and drillers for 10 years and I don't want to switch. Now, what do you say?"

Succinctly Garrett named the place he wished Hoover to select for his abode. He stood still that he might give his sentence more power. "And what's more, Mr. Hoover, I think you are an empty-dumpty thief who is trying to rob his employer's widow."

Like a battering ram Hoover drove his huge fist at Garrett. The blow might have killed, but it did not land. Thereafter Hoover's arms were like the sails of a windmill—not the Berg type, but somewhat more archaic.

Garrett's fists landed fast and well. When he had enough of exercise Garrett walked away. He heard the sound of heavy running feet and a suburban car's white searchlight flashing east, he hurried to the platform in time to catch it.

It was 10 o'clock when he reached home. Delphine Myer was alone in the parlor with her graphophone. She welcomed him with a bright smile.

MANIPULATING the typewriter keyboard is to many beginners a perplexing thing, but according to an old-time typist familiarity with the positions of the letters may easily be acquired through the practicing of the following sentences, each of which contains every letter in the alphabet.

The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog.

Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugs.

Quickly extemporized five town bage.

Frowney quacks, vex, jump and blight.

Quack! Glad zephyrs, wave my javelin box.

Five minutes or more practice of these sentences every day will soon result in a familiarity with the keyboard of the typewriter that will be surprising. It is said that these sentences are wonderful pacemakers for those who desire to acquire speed and accuracy in typewriting.

CARDINALS HERE EAGER FOR FRAY; BROWNS READY

McCloskey's Regulars Shiver With Cold and Bliss Has a Fever—Both Clubs Confident of Victory in Series.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY

SHIVERING from the chilly north breeze, 15 of McCloskey's regulars alighted from the train at the Union Station this morning at five minutes before 8 o'clock. The change of temperature was keenly felt and when Manager Mac ordered all the men to the ball park for practice this afternoon at 2 o'clock, they shook in anticipation.

But in spite of the chill and cold every man on the team was glad to get home again and eager to get at the Browns in the first game of the big series Saturday.

Catcher Bliss and Third Baseman Charles are both a little under the weather, and Bliss may not be able to work in any of the games with the American Leaguers. Charles says he will be out today and fit to play Saturday.

Bliss Has High Fever. Bliss suffered all night long while riding on the train and his fever was 102 most of the time. This morning he was very weak and a doctor was called. Bliss' trouble was caused directly by a slight injury received in the game at Austin. He said for the home plate in the first game, and scraped his hip. Since then a boil has developed on his leg and all these ailments have brought on fever.

Charles' case was but a slight bilious attack and he looks much better today and declares he is feeling as good as ever, so the third corner for the Cardinals seems safe in the spring series.

But cutting out the Springfield game today the Cardinals will be able to play in two days of practice on the home grounds.

As Foster has not been with the club in the past two weeks or more, these two days of practice should help him, as he is to play the important position of second base in the local series.

Gilbert Out for Fight. Manager McCloskey fears Billy Gilbert will not be in shape to appear before a St. Louis crowd for at least two weeks, and he will not be ready by that time.

Little O'Rourke is beginning to handle the ball nicely from second base, and McCloskey may use him in one of the games so Hoster can work behind the bat. But Thursday afternoon he will have Hoster's bat and will play his trick plays with a lobby Burne at short.

When the boys read that Manager McAleer of the Browns was depending on two pitchers to beat them in the spring series, they were all fighting for the chance to get in.

"It's the first time I have been here that I have had more than one pitcher to beat them in the spring series. In fact, they are all fighting for the chance to get in."

"We had a splendid training trip, the best I have ever had. The only dark spot of it all was the sickness of Bliss, which has developed since we left Houston. We had good weather all the time and fine work. I don't believe another big league club has had any better trip in training than we have, and for once I expect to start into the championship race with a team ready for the fight."

The pitchers on whom McCloskey is depending to beat the Browns are Karger, Fromme, Higginbotham, Salie and McGinn. Karger, Fromme, Salie and McGinn have been pitching in the big league club for some time, and it is possible that McGinn will also be used, and it is quite cer-

DOG SHOW JUDGING IS TO BE COMPLETED TODAY

St. Louis is "going to the dogs," judging from the attendance at the annual show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at the Crescent Rink building, 330 Olive street.

All day yesterday and up to a late hour last night automobiles and vehicles of all sorts were lined up on Olive street for blocks while society was viewing "Tower" or seeing how "Pansy Blossom" was faring in the judging.

The officers of the club declare the show is by far the most successful ever held. If the present attendance keeps up, the show will break all records.

More than 800 dogs are on exhibition. Over twenty different breeds are being shown, from the toy dog to the St. Bernard, and from the greyhounds to the dachshunds.

Owing to the judging of the classes not starting until late yesterday, not many classes were completed. It is expected that the greater part of the judging will be completed today.

BOTH LEADERS WIN RAILROAD LEAGUE GAMES

Iron Mountain and Wabash Teams Running a Close Race.

As the result of last night's Railroad Tenpin League matches, bowled on the De Soto alleys, but one game separates the leading teams. The Iron Mountain have won 46 games and lost 13, while the Wabash have won 45 and lost 13.

Both teams won last night. The Wabash five registered the best average recorded in the four league contests with 82.1-1 plus per game. The Iron Mountain won 1-1 plus per game, but the Wabash walked off with the three contests.

Wabash, with a 186 average, was high for the winners.

The Iron Mountain won two out of three from the Missouri Pacific M. of W. team. The Missouri Pacific team repeated 50 plus handicap per game. The Iron Mountain averaged 830, but could not make connections.

In the other Railroad League matches the Southern won the odds from the Missouri Pacifics and the Central Branch team whitewashed the Arkansas Midlands.

The Flinchmeiers took three games from the Southern in their St. Louis Tenpin League match on the Grand alleys with the nice average of 94 plus per game.

In the St. Louis league contest decided last night on the Grand alleys the Palatkafts won three games from the Grinnatners.

Both Americans Chess Winners. VIENNA, April 2.—In the eighth round of the international chess tournament today, both Americans won their games. Marshall against Cola and Johner against Berger. Maroczy and Schlechter are now tied for first place.

Former Pool Champion Enters Chicago Tournament. Alfredo De Oro has sent in his entry to compete in the world's championship pool tournament which opens in Chicago Monday. De Oro, up to two years ago, was considered unbeatable at the 15-ball game, and at present he has a small-sized trunk full of trophies.

De Oro displayed excellent form in two practice matches yesterday. In the first he defeated Marjory Maly, 125 to 59. In the evening match he won from Ted Schaefer, 125 to 80.

Jake Bohmeyer and B. Ellison will play De Oro today at Pesch's Billiard Hall.

New York fans are cautioning Griffith not to use the derrick so quickly on his pitchers this season. Griffith has a habit of yanking a pitcher out when the batters begin to feel the twisters.

Patsy Donovan is out with the assertion that he has best collection of youngsters in the National League. He probably needs them the most.

Jack Warner will be retained on the Washington payroll to coach the young pitchers.

Umpire Johnson has signed for four years with the National League. Some persons are always running headlong into trouble.

Johnson is to meet Barry Negro and Chicagoan Will Go Ten Rounds in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 2.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight, whom Tommy Burns says he will meet in a final fight for the championship of the world, is adding gray hairs trying to figure out the New Yorkers a winner.

The American Association is not without its troubles trying to coax recalcitrant into camp. Kansas City has Pitcher Swann among the missing ones. St. Paul is trying to get "Lefty" Davis, Easiek and Ed Minahan into the fold.

Charles Hickman, who seems to be especially prone in handing out his views on baseball in general this season, is for rule that a pitcher is to first on three wide ones instead of four.

Now the Pittsburgh writers are trying to figure whether Wagner would make good if he really came back in support of this argument. It is said that Amos Russett did not. Help!

COCHEMS EXPLAINS TO A. A. U. BOARD

St. Louis U. Coach Declares Failure to Register Athletes Was an Oversight.

Edward B. Cochems, athletic director of St. Louis University, attended a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Western division of the Amateur Athletic Union held at the Central Y. M. C. A., at which he explained to the majority of the members of the board why athletes competed for the varsity in the St. Louis U. meet at the Jai Alai Building, 1000 Market street, without membership cards in the W. A. A. U.

St. Louis University won the trophy for scoring the greatest number of points. The contention was set up that St. Louis U. allowed a number of boys to enter and compete in the meet who did not have amateur cards. Cochems was called upon to attend last night's meeting to explain why this happened.

If he could not do so, St. Louis U. was to be disqualified and a number of St. Louis U. athletes suspended.

Cochems declared before the board that the whole matter was a "tempest in a teapot, stirred up because St. Louis U. won the meet." He declared that all of his good athletes were registered and the boys who were not registered were mostly youngsters, from 13 to 15 years of age, members of the Junior track team, who competed in the minor events.

As to their amateur standing he declared that there was no question as to their amateur status and that they were too young to take part in previous amateur contests.

Nevertheless Cochems declared that if he had not been ill at the time preparations for the meet were being made, all of the boys would have been registered. As it was Cochems claimed that Father Patrick Burke of St. Louis University, who is not familiar with the red tape of the Amateur Athletic Union, was the one who had entered for the meet.

The board of governors gave Cochems until Friday night to show that this had been sent in. Cochems declares that he will register all of the boys now that he is able to be about again.

William Brown of Eastman High School will be asked to explain how he vaulted 116 inches in the pole vault and the pole vault event was his best previous performance.

Strength of his performance given on the entry blank he was allowed 10 inches handicap, which made the pole vault event easy for him.

TOMMY BURNS SPEAKS BEFORE SPUNKY CLUB

Heavyweight Champion on After-Dinner Program With English Nobility.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch from New York City.

LONDON, April 2.—The strange effects of after-dinner speaking and hobnobbing with nobility is being shown by Tommy Burns, a champion heavyweight money-getter.

With Lord Alverston seated on his right and Lord Bessborough on his left, Burns' most famous after-dinner speech, which he gave at the Phoenix Club last night, was a study in the art of the English nobility. The latter won in two rounds.

Mr. Burns was to speak on "Fidelity in Sport," a title chosen because of Mr. Burns' exposure of the O'Brien fiasco in Los Angeles. Mr. Burns, who was a champion boxer, was a champion Englishman, and then outwitted Harman in his holiday in public life.

Burns says he is willing to allow the money to remain in the hands of the prize money, no matter what the result of the fight, and he would prefer a knockout to a decision. He said that he would like to see a prize money of $500,000.

Arrangements are about completed for another fight in London, which would limit it to California or Nevada. Arrangements are about completed for another fight in London, which would limit it to California or Nevada.

The Mole fight, if it is arranged, will take place in one of the big football grounds and the price of admission will be from 1 shilling upwards, which means that at least 50,000 persons probably would attend.

BASEBALLS SOAR IN PRICE NOW

Young Players Send Up Wail, but Rubber Trust Is on the Job.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 2.—Price of baseballs took a jump today.

Bo far as the small boy and most of his larger brothers are concerned every other item of news is subordinated to this appalling announcement.

When it became known that the manufacturers of the big league baseball had increased the price on $1.25 to $1.50 groans of protest went up from almost every block in the city.

The boys held indignation meetings on street corners and in vacant lots and inflammatory resolutions were adopted denouncing the attempt to drive the aspiring amateurs back to the mollicollec beanbag.

One of the principal reasons given by the manufacturers is the advance in the price of rubber, a large percentage of which is employed in the composition of the first-class ball. It was also explained that the worst case was on, but this is believed to be a yarn.

$50,000 IN PURSES OFFERED FOR CRACK HARNESS HORSES

BOSTON, April 2.—A $50,000 handicap dash race on Aug. 24, in which the fastest horse will go a distance of one and a quarter miles and be allowed a 50-foot start for each second difference in speed, no horse is to be handicapped slower than up to a mile in 1:15, will be the feature of the Grand Circuit work at Readville this year.

The purse, which is offered by the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association, is the largest purse ever offered for trotting horses in this country. The entrance fee will be $500 and the purse will be divided as follows: First, $20,000; second, $10,000; third, $5,000; fourth, $2,500; fifth, $1,000; sixth, $500.

Pegged on the Bases

The G. A. R. has notified the Duquesne (Pa.) club of the Three I League that it will join the players from appearing on the diamond before 3 o'clock Decoration Day.

By Seymour is the one Giant not to be given an error since the Giants started practice.

Jake Beckley is prancing around first base like a youngster at Kansas City. The writers declare that he is covering more ground first corner than any man in the American Association today.

Mordca Brown will show in his home town, Terre Haute, Ind., April 3, and the local fans are arranging a big reception. The three-fingered one is a bigger man in the Haute town than Roosevelt.

Chicago is still on the baseball map. Ben Johnson has announced that he will not move his office to New York. Ben thinks his departure would cause the lake to fall three feet.

The New York National League writers are handing themselves a fine spring tonic. It is to the effect that McGraw's aggression will beat out the Cubs.

The player who scores more runs than "Spikie" Johnson this season will earn a pretty close to doubling the world's record, declares a certain Mr. McGraw, who is adding gray hairs trying to figure out the New Yorkers a winner.

CATARRH A FAR-REACHING BLOOD DISORDER

Even in its early stages Catarrh is almost intolerable, caused by the stuffy feeling in the nose, the buzzing noises in the ears, the continual "hawking and spitting" difficult breathing, etc. But when the blood becomes thoroughly polluted from the catarrhal matter, the inflammation extends to the bronchial tubes, causing hoarseness, and often an aggravating cough; the stomach is affected, resulting in dyspepsia, loss of appetite and strength, and gradually all the mucous membranes of the body become diseased and the system upset and deranged. Frequently the kidneys and bladder are attacked, and the constant passage of impure blood through the lungs, diseases these important members, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption. Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, and must be treated constitutionally, for it is beyond the reach of local treatment. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all the impure catarrhal matter and at the same time building up the entire system. It goes down and attacks the disease at its head in the circulation, and removes every trace of the impurity that is causing the trouble. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed membranes commence to heal, the mucous discharges grow less and finally cease, and all the disagreeable and disgusting symptoms of Catarrh disappear. S. S. S. has no equal as a cure for this disease. It refines and purifies the entire circulation and repairs the damage done by Catarrh. Special book on Catarrh and any medical advice free. This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.

Mrs. A. Gregory of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Colo., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in a few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. Any woman suffering as I did with backache, headache and kindred ailments should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with fibroid tumors, backache, headache, hot flashes, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HILL DECLARES JOHNSON GREAT, "IN MINNESOTA"

Railroad Magnate Says He Knows Governor Only as an Official.

FEARS BUREAU RULE

Refers to New York World as "Fearless and Independent Organ."

BRYAN NOT LIKELY TO BE NAMED, SAYS HARVEY.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 2.—"The names on the Democrat ticket should be Woodrow Wilson and John A. Johnson," said Col. George Harvey, head of Harper Bros. "Will Bryan be nominated?" he was asked. "Not likely, under the two-thirds rule," replied Col. Harvey. "Taft will almost certainly be nominated by the other side for President, and Hughes, probably, for Vice-President. Roosevelt might prefer somebody else, but Taft will have the picking of his running mate and Gov. Hughes could not withstand a universal demand."

"Which would win?" "There are 1,300,000 men out of employment today. In November the number will be doubled," replied Col. Harvey.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 2.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad Co., in an exclusive interview given to the New York World and Post-Dispatch yesterday, told what he thought of Gov. John Johnson of Minnesota as presidential timber. Concretely expressed his opinion of the Governor is:

Gov. Johnson is a great man—in Minnesota.

Stories that the Great Northern's president and the powerful railroad interests of which he is chief are behind Johnson, despite the way he has made them jump hurdles in Minnesota, have been most insistent. In a recent magazine article it was written:

"It would be pleasant to announce that Mr. James J. Hill and all the Northwestern railroad interests are bitterly opposed to Mr. Johnson. In truth they are not, and it is impossible to think of a more curious and instructive fact. So far has the warfare gone against corporate interests that they would rather take a man of Johnson's record of anti-corporation legislation than another man that might do worse."

"What do you think of that?" Mr. Hill was asked.

Knows Him Only as Governor.

"There is nothing in that; nothing at all," snapped Mr. Hill. "I know Johnson only as the Governor of Minnesota. He has been most successful, I should say. His administrations have been popular. He has made some good appointments in the judiciary; appointed some good sheriffs and other officers."

"You speak of him distantly, Mr. Hill. Current publications would lead one to imagine you were on the most intimate terms of friendship with Gov. Johnson."

"There is nothing in those stories. Three-quarters of what the newspapers print hasn't even a semblance of fact for foundation, I know."

In opening the interview Mr. Hill called the New York World "a great, fearless, independent organ."

"I don't suppose I have met Gov. Johnson more than once or twice—probably at a dinner or a club, or some place like that," said Mr. Hill. "He is a good, respectable man, who has the confidence of the people of Minnesota. His rise has been rapid—from a poor boy to a newspaper man, and then State Senator and on up to where he is now."

State Control Causes Snarl.

"Mr. Hill, don't you think such radical measures as the Minnesota and North Carolina state bills simply result in putting state control of public corporations back about fifty years?"

"State control," snorted Mr. Hill. "Do you know that the railroads of this country have done more for it than the railroads of any other country under the sun; have done more for the people than any railroads on the face of the earth?"

"That's all right, but the state control that was meant is the kind that would let the railroads make decent returns on their investments, but would see to it that they gave honest service to the public."

"Umph! Bureaus! This country is becoming more and more like Russia every day! It's almost there now. Soon we'll have a government absolutely by bureau."

MULVILL, AS AN ATTORNEY, OBTAINS RELEASE OF GIRL

Mrs. Walsh's Servant Visited Side-board, Blew Out Gas, Spent Night at Station.

Excise Commissioner Mulvill Thursday appeared as attorney for Mrs. Francis X. Walsh of 5123 Raymond avenue, who, fashionably gowned, was in the Dayton Street Police Court. She did not want to prosecute Maggie Strenheim, a servant who alarmed the family Wednesday after associating too intimately with the sideboard. Mr. Mulvill obtained the young woman's release.

While Mrs. Walsh was at church

Wednesday evening, her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. F. Walsh, was alarmed by noises from the domestic's room. M. E. Croak, who lives across the street, was summoned, and ventured into the room after arming himself. The young woman had blown out the gas and thrown herself across the bed. She was sleepy. Mr. Croak summoned a policeman and a doctor. The domestic was none the worse for the gas. She spent the night at the Twelfth District Police Station.

"Hoover Hall" Disappears. Miss Louise McNair, principal of Hoover Hall, a school for girls at 472 Washington boulevard, has asked the police to look for a brass sign 25 inches long and 18 inches wide which has mysteriously disappeared from the front of the building. It contained the words, "Hoover Hall."

POLLARD FINES MAN $1047, WIFE $10 AND COSTS

Discharging Pistol, $500; Resisting Arrest, $500; Disturbing Peace, $25.

BREAKS COURT RECORD

Woman's Second Husband Slugged Her First One, According to Testimony.

William F. Huseman was fined $1047 in the Dayton Street Police Court Thursday. This established Judge Pollard's record.

A quarrel with William McTaggart, Mrs. Huseman's former husband, gunplay and a spectacular buggy drive, preceded the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Huseman. A struggle with two policemen, in which Mrs. Huseman used her fists valiantly, followed.

Mrs. Huseman was fined $10 and costs, making the total for the family $1050.

The testimony showed that Huseman met McTaggart in a saloon at Broadway and Howard street and demanded to know where McTaggart was hiding a 14-year-old son by Mrs. Huseman's first marriage.

McTaggart replied that he knew nothing about the boy, and then, he testified, Huseman knocked him down and fired three shots at him, none of which took effect.

Then Huseman ran outside and jumped into a buggy, in which his wife accompanied him.

Patrolmen Grotzper and Boone, standing at Tenth and Howard streets, heard the shots and presently saw the buggy driven west on Howard to Ninth street, south to Mullany and west to Tenth street. There the policemen stopped it.

Grotzper testified that Mrs. Huseman struck him several times in the face, and that both she and her husband struggled all the way to the patrol box.

The fine was $1047.

Judge Pollard fined Huseman $500 and costs for discharging firearms, $500 and costs for resisting arrest, $25 for disturbing McTaggart's peace and $10 and costs for fast driving. He fined Mrs. Huseman $10 and costs for interfering with an officer.

McTaggart lives at 707 Howard street, and the Husemans at 1409 Cass avenue. Huseman acted as his own attorney, and in cross-examining McTaggart asked him:

"Now, isn't it true that you are prejudiced against me because I married your former wife?"

"No," McTaggart retorted, "I'm glad you got her."
